'Buddy' Rogers Hurt As Car Spills Near Delaware

Orchestra Leader Pinned In Overturned Auto, Rushed to Hospital; Mary Pickford Flies to Bedside.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Charles "Buddy" Rogers, noted orchestra leader, suffered minor injuries early today when the automobile in which he was riding overturned 12 miles north of Columbus, near Delaware, O.

At University hospital, Columbus, where Rogers and Ben Fearman, 30, of Brooklyn, N. Y., driver of the car, were taken Rogers was reported in "satisfactory" condition.

The orchestra leader, husband of Mary Pickford, motion picture star of "silent" days, suffered a dislocated right shoulder, torn ligaments in his right arm and body bruises. Feaman was injured only slightly.

Mandamus Action Designed to Restore Ohio to States Getting Funds.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio supreme court today ordered Governor Davey and the welfare division to either comply with the state and federal laws governing administration of old age assistance or appear in court on Oct. 15 at 11 a. m. to show cause why they had not done so.

The order was issued shortly after a mandamus suit was filed against Governor Davey, Welfare Director Margaret Allman and Wray Bevens, newly appointed chief of the division of aid for the aged by Edgar S. Byers, of Cleveland Heights.

Hits 'National Scandal.'

The suit, filed by Byers' attorney, Marc J. Grossman, declared that "the administration of poor relief is already a national scandal" and asked that the defendants be forced to comply with the state and federal laws so that Ohio might be restored to the list of the states whose social security laws are approved by the federal government.

Last Friday the social security board struck Ohio from the approved list and said no further grants would be made until provsiions of the law have been complied with.

In order that Ohio might be restored to this list the suit asked that the defendants be ordered to prepare and submit to the social security board detailed statements of the following steps to be taken in an effort to restore the Buckeye state to the approved list:

FACES COURT

Woman Driver, Cited by Jury, Arraigned Today.

Indicted by the county grand jury for reckless driving and failing to stop for a school bus, Mrs. Walter F. Howell, Mansfield, was to be arraigned before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court at 4:30 p. m. today.

Mrs. Howell was indicted secretly by the jury last Thursday on two bills after her car had struck and seriously injured Lester and Paul Baker, brothers, in front of their home on the Millsborough road.

The youths, one of whom had just left a school bus, are still in Mansfield General hospital. The accident occurred three weeks ago.

Arrested yesterday on a secret indictment for burglary, Philip Rosen, 30, Mansfield, was held today in county jail in connection with the robbery of the home of Max Mosberg, Ruth avenue, last May. Loot obtained from the residence included $70 in cash, a watch and two guns.

'LAST REQUEST'

'Mercy Killer' Wants to Be at Funeral of Slain Wife.

MINEOLA, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Ready to stand trial for the "mercy killing" of his wife if authorities so decree, Harry C. Johnson asked just one boon today—permission to attend her funeral.

"It's the one thing in this world left for me to do," the 65-year-old retired gasoline distributor said as he awaited, in a hospital room, the outcome of scientific tests upon which his fate rests.

The question faced by authorities was: Did 67-year-old Jennie Johnson die of gas poisoning or from the effects of a stomach cancer which made her last days on earth so miserable that she asked her husband to kill her?

Dr. Theodore J. Curphey, Nassau county medical examiner, said after an autopsy yesterday that Mrs. Johnson would have died soon even if her husband had not decided to make her passing a merciful one.

NEW CITIZENS TO GET PAPERS

35 Foreign-Born Residents to Be Honored This Evening.

Thirty-five foreign-born residents of Mansfield and Richland county who passed citizenship examinations last week, will receive their naturalization papers at a reception in their honor at 8 p. m. today at the American Legion home.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church and chaplain of the Legion, will be the principal speaker. Fred R. Zellner, county clerk of courts, will present the citizenship papers.

Sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, the program will include a musical program by L. A. Cook.

PENSIONERS IN COUNTY UNITE

Join State Society, Endorse Program to Take Aid for Aged Out of Politics.

Organizing a unit of the Ohio Society of Old Age Pensioners, Richland county's aged residents Saturday afternoon adopted a program to take the aid for aged division out of politics, increase pensioners from $30 to $45 a month, and speed up the handling of pension applications.

Meeting at the courthouse, nearly 60 of the county's aged residents elected John W. Dickson, 82-year-old Mansfielder, president of their organization. J. F. Metcalf, R. D. 3, Mansfield, was chosen vice president, and Mrs. Clara Ellis, rear of 18 North Adams street, was named secretary.

T. J. Johnson, Columbus, president of the Ohio Society of Old Age Pensioners, who organized the unit here, said the organization would seek changes in the state pension set-up, which he described as "disgraceful," and attempt to get a federal plan enacted that would give needy persons over 65 a pension of from $50 to $60 a month.

Asserting that they were for the Townsend plan and would wait "until after election before joining

Dems Move Into New Quarters, Open Fall Campaign Next Week

Opening of county Democratic headquarters in the rooms formerly occupied by the Montgomery-Ward store on West Fourth street was announced today by Atty. John C. O'Donnell, county executive committee chairman.

County Democratic organizations will dedicate their new headquarters and launch the fall campaign at the same time next Monday night with a dance and card party at the Fourth street location where campaign rallies will be held preceding the Nov. 8 election.

Opening of the Democratic headquarters next week will give both major parties downtown headquarters where they can hold campaign meetings. Republicans set up headquarters recently in the Warner Brothers building on North Main street.

The county Young Democratic club began its campaign activities with a meeting Saturday night at the courthouse with O'Donnell as the speaker.

Joseph Ziegler, Mansfield, will be in charge of arrangements for the dedication dance Monday night, and Mrs. Mary Anglin will plan the card party. Hostesses will be Mary K. Newcomer, Vivian Miller, Alice Miller, Della Gandert, Rita Carroll, Mary Jane Bellore. Ruth Durig, Dorothy Arnold, Rita Newcomer and Mary Campbell.

'NO REGRETS,' CHAMBERLAIN SAYS OF 'DEAL'

'Have Nothing to Withdraw,' Premier Tells Commons on Four-Power Pact.

COOPER FLAYS STAND

Resigned Official Says Peace Plan 'Stuck in My Throat'; Roosevelt Praised.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON— (AP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain today acclaimed before the house of commons the contribution of President Roosevelt to last week's negotiations which averted a European war and at the same time the premier answered his critics by saying he had "no regrets" over action taken at the Munich conference.

"The voice of the most powerful nation in the world" spoke across the sea to sway Europe's statesmen to ways of peace, declared Chamberlain in his defense in a tense house of commons of the Munich four-power accord for the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

Angry at Critics.

The prime minister angrily tossed back cries of "Shame!" at his critics and announced an immediate $50,000,000 loan for dismembered Czechoslovakia.

"The prayers of millions were answered" by the Munich pact, Chamberlain declared.

The prime minister replied to a bitter denunciation of his bargain with the dictators by Alfred Duff Cooper, who quit Saturday as first lord of the admiralty and who broke into bitter sobbing when he declared that the Munich terms "stuck in my throat."

Chamberlain paid tributes to President Roosevelt and to his fellow signatories of the Munich agreement, Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premiers Mussolini and Daladier.

"The messages of President Roosevelt, so fairly and yet so persuasively made, showed how the voice of the most powerful nation in the world could make itself heard across 3,000 miles of ocean and sway the minds of men in Europe," said the prime minister.

Credits Mussolini.

The prime minister went at length into an effort to show that Hitler had made concessions at Munich from his previous demands. He gave Mussolini credit for getting the mobilization of the German army postponed pending the Munich negotiations.

He revealed that it was Musso-

BUSY SESSION

Scores of Measures, Petitions to Face Council Tomorrow.

When city council convenes for its regular session tomorrow night it will be faced with a score of measures and petitions, although the major one will deal with the problem of financing the city's relief load.

Legislation being prepared today by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward asks council to approve the issuance of notes for $60,000 against anticipated state taxes through 1942 for relief.

The measure is the result of a meeting of city officials with state relief heads last week at which time were authorized to use a credit plan of catching state funds for the issuance of notes.

Another major issue up for approval will be the municipal budget for 1939 which sets up $263,240 for operating expenses next year. The budget was approved by the county budget commission last week.

38 DIE IN NEW HOLY LAND RIOTS

Six Killed When Bomb Explodes In House; Toll 106.

JERUSALEM—(AP)—At least 38 persons were killed today in new outbreaks of violence in the Holy Land, bringing to 106 the number of deaths since Saturday.

Six persons were killed when a house in Jaffa was blown up by a bomb early this morning.

Twenty Jews, including 11 children and three women, were slain and three were wounded when the armed band, described by officials as Arab rebels, raided a suburb of Tiberias in the Sea of Galilee.

COUNTY FREE OF MAJOR MISHAPS

Boy Riding Scooter, Autoist Hurt in Week-End Traffic; 6 Lose Lives in Ohio.

For the second consecutive week-end Richland county escaped without a major traffic accident, and only two persons were reported injured, neither seriously, in county mishaps. Six persons were killed in Ohio traffic.

Injured in the county were Don Burson, six years old, who was hit by a truck while riding his scooter along the Ashland road near his home, and Charles Craig, 34, Newport, R. I., whose car turned over along route 42 at the Richland-Morrow county line after the machine sideswiped a truck.

The boy was treated by a physician for head and back injuries, and Craig received treatment for head lacerations at General hospital.

The Burson boy was struck Saturday night by a truck driven by Joseph Shunatz, 90 South Main street. In attempting to miss the child, Shunatz swerved the truck into a bridge railing. The vehicle then turned over in a field.

Craig's car sideswiped a truck at 1:15 a. m. today three miles north of Johnsville, state highway patrolmen said. The truck driver, whose identity was not learned, escaped without injury, although the truck upset after the collision.

Elsewhere in the state, trains killed three persons and injured two others. Leonard Schnepp, 62, Van Wert, and his nephew, Clarence Miller, 44, of Decatur, Ind., were killed when a passenger train struck their car near Van Wert.

At Akron, a train spun an automobile over a high bank into a dumping ground, injuring Mrs. Ianthia Neiger, 22, and her infant son. Two other occupants of the car were unhurt.

Samuel J. Farr, 45, a railroad brakeman, was crushed under the wheels of a train at Youngstown. Automobiles killed James Godfrey, 40, Akron; Frank T. Korenowski, 46, Cleveland, and Albert Palmer, 75, Cincinnati. Earl Ketteman, 52, prominent Pickaway county farmer, was gored to death by a bull.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler ceremoniously entered the Sudetenland today amid great rejoicing, while Polish troops occupied another segment of Czechoslovakia's shrinking frontier and the Prague government arranged to clean up with Hungary its last unsettled minority issue.

The British and French governments meanwhile, prepared accounts for the price Czechoslovakia is paying at their behest for the Munich peace that remade a vital part of Europe's map and hoped their people would approve.

Chamberlain Meets Cabinet.

British Prime Minister Chamberlain met with his cabinet before going into parliament to read a written speech on the Munich four-power conference and face the criticisms both of laborites and conservatives.

The French government prepared to try to push through parliament, convoked for an extraordinary session for tomorrow, approval of its foreign policy, particularly the Munich accord.

The Munich peace cost France dearly. It gave Germany the military "key to Europe" which, French military authorities say, will release 30 German divisions for possible duty on the French frontier. It cost France Czechoslovakia as the keystone of her eastern European policy and weakened the reliance of France on such countries as Rumania, Yugoslavia, Poland and Hungary.

FROST ARRIVES

First of Season Recorded as Mercury Dips to 31.

The season's first frost, about two weeks later than last year, damaged vegetation over the week-end when the mercury fell to 31 degrees, one below freezing, the lowest mark this fall.

Most crops were believed too far advanced to be harmed by the cold which held the mercury to a high of 67 degrees Sunday. The low this morning was 33 and at noon today it was 67. The 31-degree reading was recorded early Sunday.

Cloudy and warmer weather forecast for tonight was expected to bring rain by Tuesday night, the weatherman said.

Patience Magic Key To Success

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles by Miss Fairfax discussing the elements which make for a successful marriage. Many of the enlightening articles which will appear three times weekly in The News-Journal will be for specific help to the betrothed couples and to those contemplating marriage. Miss Fairfax's suggestions on congeniality, patience and tolerance will also serve as a helpful guide to those who are already married, and to entire families.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

You're going to be married. There is soon to come a frilly, flouncy wedding, lots of gayety and laughter, a few secret tears and a speeding away in Jack's car for a week or two of ecstatic double solitude. Then you're to be happy ever after.

What Makes Marriage Successful?

Dear children, there's no reason why you shouldn't be entering a Paradise that will last a lifetime. But do let me whisper gently the reminder that this dream can be fulfilled only at the cost of some thought and effort—which you should be more than willing to give.

For your wish, of course, isn't merely to have each other for good; you want your marriage to be a success; you want friends and onlookers to be able to say:

"Now there's a happy pair! Ever notice how smoothly they get on together? Absolutely nothing ever fusses them. Some marriage, that is!"

Well, think for a moment of your own home life, your childhood and girlhood. Perhaps there were a good many for you. Six children, maybe. You lived in the country and didn't have many conveniences, and Father worked harder than he should in order to earn none too much money. As for Mother, as you remember it, with meals to get and the house to keep clean and clothes to make and croupy children to attend, she seemed to be on duty pretty much every hour of the day and night.

But it was a happy household, wasn't it, for all that? No quarreling, no discontent, no fits of temper?

If so, it was because somebody at the head of things had good sense and self-control. Patience, in short.

Fathers, bless them, have plenty of chance to exhibit patience, and, doubtless, they don't ever get sufficiently praised for it. But it's mother who's always on the job.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I think Dicky, who was driving, was as relieved as I, when at the Long Island entrance of the Queensboro bridge, the motorcycle officer ahead of us gave a signal for stopping, and, wheeling, came to one side of the car, while the other stayed protectively behind us.

"There's nobody suspicious in sight," the first man said, "and I'm sure you'll be all right from here on. We'll just stay here for a spell, and check on anybody that's speeding enough to catch up with you, or who looks suspicious. You just step on it to where you're going, and here's a card the captain said to give you that'll speed you on your way if a city cop gets funny about red lights or any little thing like that."

"We'll drop Noel first, don't you think?" Dicky said, and I gave a prompt assent. It was but a few minutes later that we left Noel at the hotel I had designated, and I had promised him that as soon as Mary and I could manage it, we would come to him.

"Just a second!" Noel said as Dicky put the car into first, preparatory to driving off again. "Have you thought—"

He stopped, his face crimsoned, his manner decidedly embarrassed.

"Have I thought what, Noel?" I encouraged.

"— that the Princess Olina might inadvertently tell my father that I had gone up to the city with you?" he stammered.

Wouldn't Be Accident.

I made the mental comment that if Olina did "spill the beans," as Lillian would say, the word to describe her action would be anything but "inadvertent." That young feminine scion of royalty knew exactly what she was doing at every second of the day.

"No, I had not, Noel," I said, with a smile, "but I am thinking very fast now, and we'll guard against any such possibility. Your father has been forbidden to telephone the house, you know, and so he can't get into communication with Olina for several days. I shall write a line to Mrs. Underwood as soon as I reach the hotel, asking her to appeal to the princess not to embarrass you by any unwise comment to your father. She will heed the warning, I am sure."

Emphatic Appeal.

When we reached the Lansfield Dicky was out of the car almost before it had stopped.

"If you boys will go in and wait just inside the door," he said, "I'll bring your aunt in pronto."

"I'm only going to keep you a second," he said, "because I'll feel better when you're safely inside. But I want you to know that if I don't show up for that 11 o'clock appointment of Hank's tomorrow, it won't be because I don't want to, but because I just can't."

His eyes held the tortured look I had seen in them before, and I answered it, rather than his words.

"Of course, I know," I said. "And if you can't come, I am sure Bill will manage all right. But I do hope you can make it."

"It's about 10 to 1 that I can," he returned. "But I wanted to prepare you for the tenth chance. I'll know by 10 o'clock, at the latest. Will that be time enough to call you?"

"More than enough," I assured him, and with a quick breath as of relief, he rushed me through the door, gave me into the care of Bill and Hank and went away as hurriedly, while my anxious mental query followed him.

Whatever in the world was the matter with my husband?

So, if a household is serene and happy, year in and year out, it's safe to say that it's mother who has accomplished it. Perhaps that's the reason we've come to think of patience as a woman's virtue.

Don't imagine for a moment that the exercise of patience can be put off until three or four babies have arrived. A tender understanding and harmony between the parents, which is, of course, the foundation of family happiness, should be developed from the very first day of marriage.

Jack may be the most lovable boy in the world and yet have certain trying personal habits. He may whistle out of tune or have no time-sense or he may not conform to the code of the perfect housekeeper, so far as cigarette ashes are concerned. What line are you going to take when you notice these things? Are you going to risk your happiness by scolding him? Or are you going to remember that it's his home as well as yours and that it's your job to be patient?

Don't think you're a martyr, either. Can you yourself qualify for perfection? Are you sure the bathroom is never messed up with too much lipstick and rouge? Or that Jack is really satisfied by those tasteless little dabs of dessert that you sometimes hastily stir up at the last moment before dinner? However much you love each other, each of you has little faults which may be trouble-centers later on if they're allowed to cause irritation at the beginning.

As for the commonplace ills that in some degree beset every family—sickness, loss of jobs, disappointments of one kind and another—is there anything except patience that will steer you past these menaces to your happiness?

If so, I don't know what it is.

Soft Lights Make Women Lovelier

By MME. QUI VIVE

Has this ever happened to you? Have you done your best to pretty for the merry evening party after a rush-around day only to find that your thoughtless hostess has turned on all the bright lights? You glance into a mirror, wonder if you ever looked worse. We've all lived through that experience.

The kindly hostess will so arrange the candles on her dining table that even the chins of her guests are in shadow.

Strong lights have the same depressing effect upon lovely fabrics that they have on makeup and human faces. Figure defects loom up, are accentuated. There aren't many lovelies in this world who can stand glare. It makes them feel uncomfortable. They don't like being in the limelight, don't know what to do with their hands or their feet. And their eyes go blinky.

White lamp shades, now so popular, are not particularly flattering. Soft rose tints do wonders for a woman's appearance, and mauve brings out the glitter of golden hair like nobody's business. Either of these colors combined with opal or ivory makes a charming shade. Coral serves satisfactorily. There are betwixt-and-between tones, like ashes of rose, that are compelling. There are tea rose tints, neither pink or yellow but a combination of both that gives the skin a wonderfully soft, velvety touch.

If you happen to be a home builder and are wrestling with the problem of wallpaper or wall painting, do consider what surroundings do to appearance.

Avoid strong colors, whatever you do. Red walls are suffocating. Heavy greens are violent enough to make the world look wrong. So are blues that lack delicacy of tone. Select faint pastel tints.

Lovely women should have beautiful backgrounds. And lovely women are never so charming as when they are in homes that express taste and personality.

Smothered Round Steak
Riced Potatoes
Steamed Squash
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Honeycomb Pudding Tea

These recipes are taken from Fannie Merritt Farmer's "New Book of Cookery."

Smothered Round Steak — Cut three slices salt pork in small pieces and "try out" in heavy frying pan, add one onion, sliced, and fry until brown. Wipe a two-pound slice of round steak, place in frying pan and pour over it one and one-half cups cold water and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Bring quickly to boiling point, cover closely and simmer until meat is tender—about two hours. Remove steak to hot platter and strain liquor in pan, of which there should be about one cup. Melt one tablespoon butter, add two tablespoons flour and stir until smooth, then pour on the pan liquor, stirring constantly, and bring to boiling point. Season with salt and pepper and pour over steak.

Honeycomb Pudding — One cup sugar, one cup flour, one cup molasses, one-half cup butter, one-half cup lukewarm milk, one teaspoon soda, four eggs. Mix sugar and flour, then add molasses. Melt butter in milk and add soda. Combine mixtures, beat thoroughly and add eggs, well beaten. Turn into buttered baking dish and bake in moderate oven. Serve with any favorite sauce.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, October 4.

A VERY LIVELY and progressive day is forecast from the important mutual aspects of the planets. Surprising or quite unexpected events may occur, causing much perturbation or upset conditions. However, all in the pursuit of major objectives or propositions drastically affect the future and its success. Aspirations and ideals are high, and elders, superiors and powerful influences are at work to encourage these and assist in putting them on firm foundations.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves launched in a year of large interests and surprising events, with major propositions or sudden opportunities of a quite unpredictable nature causing a sudden reorientation of the objectives and the surroundings. Important persons have a part in this, either furnishing capital or otherwise contributing to sound results. Seek such co-operation with confidence, but be careful in financing too recklessly.

A child born on this day may be progressive and energetic. It may have high ideals and possibly startling ambitions. These may be aided by elders, superiors or those of affluence, who may be generous with bequest or insurance.

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOOK IN THE MIRROR

If you could peer into a looking glass back of each defender, you could certainly make some nice plays based on exact knowledge of what each held. Upon occasion you can get just as good a result by using your ears in combination with your eyes. Some of your information comes from their bidding and all the rest that you really require is furnished by the cards they lead and play to early tricks.

	♠ None ♥ K 10 7 6 ♦ 10 9 6 4 ♣ A J 10 8 5
♠ J ♥ Q J 9 8 3 2 ♦ Q J 5 ♣ K 6 4	N. W. E. S.	♠ K Q 10 9 7 5 3 ♥ A 4 ♦ 8 3 2 ♣ 3
	♠ A 8 6 4 2 ♥ 5 ♦ A K 7 ♣ Q 9 7 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal was 1-Spade by South, 2-Hearts by West, 3-Clubs by North, 3-Spades by East and 5-Clubs by South.

Against this bid, East led the spade K, which was taken with dummy's A. Declarer then led the heart 5 and when West could not produce the A, considering the singleton, but played the J, North allowed it to hold. West then led a club, hoping to give North the impression that the K was held by East. However, North stopped to considr that for his 2-Heart bid, West must hold the club K at least so he took the finesse. His next step was to ruff a heart, which dropped East's A.

North then was able to lead a trump, which was followed by another heart ruff. Next came a spade, ruffed in the North, and the last outstanding trump was drawn. The diamonds A and K and the heart K were cashed and one diamond trick given up at the end.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ K Q J 9 ♥ 10 7 5 ♦ J 8 6 4 ♣ A 3
♠ 10 6 4 ♥ A 8 6 4 2 ♦ Q 10 ♣ Q 7 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ 7 5 3 2 ♥ K 9 ♦ A 5 3 2 ♣ J 9 4
	♠ A 8 ♥ Q J 3 ♦ K 9 7 ♣ K 10 8 6 5

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

How should South play to make 3-No Trump after the lead of the heart 4?

Favor Velvet Hats

Whether it was the sudden cold snap or just the universal love of sleek fabrics nobody seems to know, but more velvet hats are being worn this season than ever before, observers say. Felt runs a close second.

Always wash flour sieves in soda water, never in soapy water, as particles of soap may adhere and give a soapy taste to foods put through the sieve.

WAS COVERED WITH PIMPLES

Miss B. Green, Box 361, Davis, Okla., writes: "For three years my face was covered with large pimples caused by an external condition. I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them for three weeks I was greatly relieved; and now my skin is as smooth as a baby's." For FREE sample, write to Cuticura, Dept. 85, Malden, Mass.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

THEATER

IN PUSHING John Garfield toward stardom, Warner Bros. have their hands full. They believe he is another Paul Muni and therefore Big Box Office. He makes a hit in "Four Daughters," and is featured in "They Made Me a Criminal," now in production. But Garfield is indifferent to pictures and is homesick for the Group Theater in New York. He hopes to combine on a 50-50 basis stage acting and films, although it has never been done successfully. He doesn't like the Hollywood way of acting, which is 90 per cent personality and 10 per cent talent. Garfield is the actor who was a delinquent youth until rescued by Angelo Patri. He's considered a movie 'find."

On Your Must List.

"Boys Town" is one of the pictures you want to put on your "must" list; it has a humanly gripping story and it has Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney in roles that are "naturals" for both of them. Tracy plays Father Flanagan, the man who organized and built Boys Town, Nebraska. The singing of the a capella choir of the real Boys Town is something worth hearing. The picture, with a purely fictitious story except for the way the town was started and the character of Father Flanagan, was made at Boys Town. It's at the Ohio.

Heddy Veddy Beautiful.

Heddy Lamarr, whose American film debut was long delayed after her arrival and who makes her first appearance in "Algiers" with Charles Boyer and Sigrid Gurie, is very, very beautiful and the epitome of that much abused word, glamor. Whether or not she can act is open for discussion. This colorful story of a romantic rogue and his two loves is at the Madison.

New Family Series.

The colorful Goldwyn Follies, with Charlie McCarthy — and of course, Mr. Bergen, tops the bill at the Majestic for the middle of the week, with "Speed to Burn" as a secondary attraction. Michael Whalen, Lynn Bari and Henry Armetta are seen in this first episode in a new family series—the Gambini family, with funny Mr. Armetta as Papa Gambini.

Claudette at Park.

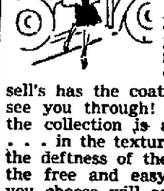
If you've ever felt an aching desire to throw bricks through big plate glass windows, you will find your suppressed desire pictured for you in "She Married Her Boss," the Claudette Colbert film at the Park theater. Claudette and Melvyn Douglas hurl the bricks. Michael Bartlett is the other man in the triangle. Africa is the locale of "Dark Sands," the second attraction.

Candid Comments ON FALL FASHIONS

By Golden-Russell

Things You Didn't Know Till Now (Or Did You?)

All this femininity you've been reading about . . . know where it started? France, of course! Because they're celebrating the three hundredth anniversary of the birth of Louis the Fourteenth—and all the designers have gone back to the belles of the old French court of the 17th and 18th centuries for their inspiration. This means fragile waists, billowy skirts for dancing and evening wear, and a profusion of flowers, feathers, and female wiles. Golden-Russell keeps up with the Style Headquarters for this enchanting Fall!

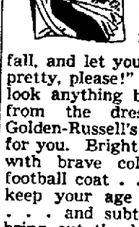


City, Country and Campus Coats! . . . . .

No matter what your plans are for this Fall, Golden - Russell's has the coat you'll need to see you through! Every one in the collection is a thoroughbred . . . in the texture of the fabric, the deftness of the tailoring, and the free and easy way the one you choose will see you through your brisk and busy Fall program. You'd better make an issue of going into Golden-Russell's very soon and seeing their coats for here, there, and everywhere—and YOU!

Stock Up on Sweaters!

Don't face Fall unless you have two or three smart little sweaters plus a skirt . . . then you're all set for your sports activities! Golden-Russell's has cornered them all for you—all the nicest ones, that is! Zephyr weights, open lacy knits and novelty weaves of all kinds—in colors as up-to-the-minute as next year's World's Fair!



Dresses Designed With You in Mind! . . . . .

Why don't you take a photographer's point of view on YOU this fall, and let your motto be "Look pretty, please!" Because you can't look anything but, if you choose from the dress-collection that Golden-Russell's has assembled for you. Bright woolens—to flash with brave color beneath your football coat . . . doft styling to keep your age your own secret . . . and subtle rich shades to bring out the best in your complexion and your figure . . . without un-balancing your budget!

HURRY! They're on the House! . . . . .

I've found a way to make my hosiery money earn dividends at Golden-Russell's! It costs nothing to join and it's called the Mojud Hosiery club. When you've bought a dozen pair of Mojuds you get the next pair FREE! Just fill out your membership card the next time you get your lovely Mojud Clariphane silk stockings — soon you'll be wearing your "lucky thirteenth" pair, and wanting to thank me for telling you about the club!

. . . FOODS New Ideas for an Old Art RECIPES . . .

Ham, Cabbage Favored For Fall Meals

By MARIE GIFFORD

Ham and cabbage are nearly as closely related in food taste as are the familiar twin foods—ham and eggs. I can think of nothing that tastes any better on a fall evening than a gorgeous thick slice of ham, baked to melting tenderness and served with pale green wedges of perfectly cooked cabbage.

Add to this the finishing touch of a delicate cheese sauce served with the cabbage and in the modern slang term "you have something there."

If you are a wise buyer, you'll investigate the new hams that require so much less cooking to make them tender. There are really 2 varieties of easily prepared hams available now-a-days.

The already cooked and ready-to-serve variety which can be sliced cold or which can be reheated quickly for hot service. These are plainly marked on the wrapper as well as on the accompanying tag that they are "cooked".

Then there are the regular smoked hams which need cooking, but are marked "tender" to indicate that they need less cooking than you'd ordinarily allow. These, too, carry full instructions on their tags as to time of cooking.

Here's how these hams save you time. Where the old style hams used to require 25 minutes to the pound to bake whole, the new extra tender hams require only about 18 minutes and the cooked hams need only a 9 to 19 minutes per pound for reheating

Two inch thick center slices of the Cooked Hams will bake in 35 to 40 minutes—or a similar slice of the extra tender variety of smoked hams will bake in 1 to 1¼ hours rather than the 2 hours originally allowed. Look into this and get acquainted with the convenience offered by the packer.

Let's not finish this story without a suggestion about the cabbage that accompanies the ham. Don't cut it all into tiny bits or cook it until it is strong and indigestible. Cut it into thick wedges the size of individual servings and cook it just until it is clear, but retains some of its fresh green color.

Place a 2 inch thick center slice or Star ham in a covered baking dish. Spread with ½ cup brown sugar mixed with ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, and add 2 tablespoons vinegar. Cover and bake 2 hours at 300° F. Uncover last 15 minutes of baking.

Cut cabbage in wedges Place in boiling, salted water and cook, uncovered, for just 7 minutes. Drain and serve with cheese sauce.

CHEESE SAUCE: Melt ¼ cup butter, add ¼ cup flour and stir in 2 cups top milk Stir until thickened, season with salt and ¼ teaspoon dry mustard and add ¾ cup grated cheese. When cheese melts serve over cabbage.

To Repaint Metal

When repainting metal furniture, remove rust stains and the old paint with a stiff metal brush or steel wool and paint remover. Then wash the furniture with a solution of half cup of sal soda in four quarters hot water. Wipe dry and then apply the enamel (two coats are usually needed.)

Perked-Up

Add mushrooms, hard-cooked eggs, boiled macaroni, rice, spaghetti or noodles to leftover fowl, meat or fish Mix in a rich savory sauce and serve the combination plain—or baked in a shallow dish.

Marshmallow treat for youngsters: Make cuts in marshmallows Insert bits of butter and jelly Arrange the marshmallows on crackers and broil or bake them until they're puffy and browned

Applique Design Brightens Fall Tables With Attractive Motif

By ELISABETH MAY BLONDEL

A dramatic meal needs a dramatic setting. If you are tired of the way your table has been looking lately, why not try a new applique fruit tablecloth or luncheon set?

On a rich red linen, applique the fruit in white, touched with black embroidery, and with edges bound with black linen. The napkins are in red linen, bound with black and monogrammed in white. Can you see those black glass plates and centerpiece and clear glasses with black bases?

The applique patches can be stamped with a hot iron transfer and cut evenly with sharp scissors. The pieces are turned at the edges, basted and hand-stitched to the cloth with invisible stitches. If you make a brown paper pattern from the transfer, you can cut as many patches as you need.

The fruit may be done in patches of natural colors, with green leaves, the sewing cotton matching the colors. This effect is charming on a cloth of white, yellow or pale green.

Linen may be used for the appliques as well as the cloth. Or the design may be stamped on fine gingham and used on a cloth of the same material, or on unbleached muslin, cotton broadcloth, or cotton with a linen finish. Of course, the fruit patch fabric must be color-fast.

Grapes, strawberries, pears, peaches, lemons, plums, cherries, apples, oranges and small plums—you can have them all. The designs are about 2½ by 3 inches.

For a delightful ensemble with the luncheon set or tablecloth, the designs may be used on a little apron or on the dining room curtains.

Kitchen Hints

Combinations of fish produce some interesting flavors. For instance tuna timbales are delicious served with crab sauce and lobster souffle goes perfectly with crab cream sauce. Shrimp sauce makes a delicious topping for a salmon loaf. Crab, shrimp and lobster, all combined with a highly seasoned salad dressing and diced celery make an excellent salad or sandwich blend.

Pickled beets, chopped, mixed with chopped cooked meats and smoked ham make a tasty filling for hot toasted sandwiches.

One bushel of pears or peaches cut in halves, yields about sixteen quarts of mixture when put up in medium syrup. One bushel of tomatoes will yield about twenty-four quarts when canned.

Lubricate the meat chopper and electric mixer with salad oil. This will prevent any disagreeable taste which might occur if regular lubricating oil was used.

Railroads Deny Overcapitalization At U. S. Hearing

FIGHTS UNION MOVE TO KEEP WAGES INTACT

Economist Testifies Before Federal Board in Battle Over Proposed Cut.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The nation's major railroads today entered a flat denial before President Roosevelt's fact-finding board that they are overcapitalized.

Attempting to answer the plea of labor that instead of imposing an ordered 15 per cent wage cut the railroads should rehabilitate their capital structure, Dr. J. H. Parmelee, economist for the Association of American Railroads, said:

"Taking the railway industry as a whole, the amount of net capital as calculated by the interstate commerce commission is less than the carriers' property investment; is less than the latest valuation of the commission's bureau of valuation; and is less than the latest lump-sum valuation placed on railway carrier property by the interstate commerce commission earlier this year."

Seeking Compromise.

The board, created by President Roosevelt to avert a called nationwide strike of 900,000 railworkers protesting against the pay cut, is conducting hearings in search of a compromise settlement of the dispute.

Dr. Parmelee also quoted from a 1934 report to congress by Joseph B. Eastman, then federal co-ordinator of transportation, in which Eastman said:

"Contrary to much popular impression, the railroads are not in the aggregate overcapitalized, in the sense that the par value of outstanding securities exceeds the money invested in the properties."

Parmelee made his assertions in response to cross-examination by labor attorneys. Efforts by labor's counsel to draw from him an admission that the employes are now "earning" their current rate of pay were blocked when the board chairman, Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of the North Carolina supreme court, ruled that that was matter for the board itself to decide.

Meanwhile railway union leaders prepared to argue vigorously against the wage reduction on the ground that such action by a major industry, may lead to widespread pay cuts throughout all industry, a body blow to recovery.

STRICKEN AT 54

Anton Grassel, Ohio Brass Employe, Dies in Hospital.

Anton Grassel, 54, of 36 Mendota street, died in the General hospital Sunday evening after a lingering illness. He was an employe of the Ohio Brass company for 20 years.

Born in Hungary, Dec. 31, 1883, Mr. Grassel came to Mansfield 32 years ago. He is survived by his wife, Susanna; three daughters, Mrs. John Ungelback of Detroit, Mrs. L. Tomits of Mansfield, and Mary at home; a son, Steve at home; his mother, Mrs. Peter Kielberger of Mansfield; a brother, Jacob Kielberger of Hungary, and two sisters, Mrs. Michael Kraus of Washington, Mich., and Mrs. Steve Brüch of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at the St. Peter's Catholic church at 10:30 a. m. Thursday with Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield Catholic cemetery. The body will be removed to the home Tuesday afternoon.

The Federal Land Bank of Louisville, plaintiff in a foreclosure action against a 99-acre farm in Washington township, purchased the farm at sheriff's sale Saturday at the courthouse for $3,167. Appraised at $3,000 the property was sold on a $3,628 mortgage judgment again Hans Wilhelm Wolf and others.

Five On Trial Today In Slot Bribery Case

Up and Down THE STREET

With Mansfield police busy with their campaign to sell tickets for the annual policemen's ball, Oct. 17, Patrolman Clare Kyler today produced a ticket for the ball 50 years ago. The ticket, carefully preserved, was sold to the late A. Scattergood, founder of the store bearing his name. The official stamp of the city of Mansfield is on the back of the orange-colored ticket.

His three score and 10 years and more than his share of hard knocks are no deterrent to T. J. Johnson, organizer for the Ohio Society of Old Age Pensioners, who hitch-hikes to all parts of Ohio to set up county clubs. Johnson thumbed rides to Mansfield Saturday from Columbus and organized a unit here, and then returned home by the "thumb method," because he has no funds for traveling expenses. "You never can tell," Johnson mused. "A few years ago I was a well-to-do hotel owner in Miami, Fla., and now I'm getting my pension from the state."

In the October issue of the Ohio Conservation bulletin, a monthly magazine devoted to the state's wild life, Mansfield and vicinity are featured in a story, "The Mansfield District." One of a series of monthly articles appearing in the magazine, it is accompanied by pictures and deals with the historic and scenic spots in this district. The pictures include the old blockhouse located in South park.

Harry Mehock, Mansfield high school coach, was in the position yesterday of a "kidder" whose jokes caught up with him. Harry frequently joshes friends about coming "over for dinner" although he's not serious. So when he sprung his perpetual joke on a friend Saturday, the friend answered him in the same spirit: "Sure, we'll be looking for you." But Harry took it seriously and yesterday when he and the Missus, all dressed up, arrived at the home of the "host" for Sunday dinner, there was consternation all around. The "hosts" were just leaving the table.

Ignore Recommendations of Green, 400 Organize for Labor's Vote Drive.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Leaders of the Ohio Federation of Labor stepped into the political arena today to fight for John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, and against the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Disregarding a recent recommendation by William Green, president of the parent American Federation of Labor, that they support Charles Sawyer, Bricker's Democratic opponent, 400 A. F. of L. representatives met here yesterday and formed a campaign organization.

Sawyer already has the active support of Labor's Non-Partisan league, political affiliate of the CIO.

The executive board of the Ohio federation voted shortly after Green made his recommendation last month to keep the federation as a labor union "traditionally" non-partisan.

John E. Breidenbach, president of the Dayton Central Labor union, presided at yesterday's meeting and said in a statement later:

"The new organization represents individual members of the federation only, but they are the leaders in the state federation.

"The leaders agreed to support Mr. Bricker, not only because his opponent has the active support of the CIO, but also because Mr. Bricker has a proven record as a friend of labor and comes from the common people."

Synthetic Rubber For Soviet Tires Proves a Failure

WARSAW — (INS) — Soviet Russian experiments in production of artificial rubber to make the country independent from foreign imports have failed, according to information reaching here.

After years of scientific research, Soviet chemists succeeded in producing a rubber substance from plants found in the Central Asian territories and called "tau sagyz" and "kok sagyz."

To prove the adaptability of the artificial rubber for manufacturing of car tires, the Soviet military authorities ordered practical tests on a fleet of 12 trucks.

According to reliable information, the commissar in charge of the test trucks reported to the Moscow government that the artificial tires were of no use at all. After one or two hundred miles the tires simply cracked up.

Experts claim that this discouraging result is due to faulty production methods employed for manufacturing tires. In Polish political circles it is believed that the GPU will shortly start investigating into possible sabotage in the artificial rubber industry built up by the Soviet government at enormous costs.

NEW NAVAL EXPERIMENTS WITH DIRIGIBLES UP TO ROOSEVELT

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — When the navy starts experimenting with dirigibles again it is up to President Roosevelt.

The president has said he has the matter under consideration, but indicated it probably would be weeks before he announced any decision.

Meanwhile, the navy has the authorization and the funds to start building a lighter-than-air ship to resume experiments that stopped with the loss of the Akron and the Macon, its giants of the air.

The Macon had no more than gone down off the California coast in 1935 than agitation began to replace it. Its sister ship and predecessor, the Akron, had been lost off the Atlantic coast two years earlier.

The last congress, in its "big navy" bill, included authorization for another dirigible, limiting its size to 3,000,000 cubic feet. This would be about half the size of the Akron and Macon. The cost was limited to $3,000,000.

In the second deficiency bill, congress appropriated $500,000 to start construction.

Admiral W. D. Leahy, navy chief of operations, testified at hearings on the dirigible that he was not opposed to such construction, but believed other matters ought to have priority.

Meanwhile, the navy has prepared to alternate plans for the new dirigible and submitted them to President Roosevelt. Bids were expected from Detroit, Richmond, Va., and Akron, O., where the Akron and Macon were built by the Goodyear - Zeppelin corporation, when the navy asks for them.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

LORAIN SHERIFF TO TAKE STAND AS KEY WITNESS

Granted Immunity, Officer to Testify Concerning Racket Activities.

(By Associated Press)

ELYRIA—Five alleged slot machine operators came up for trial today with Sheriff William F. Grall as the central figure in a bribery case that has stirred the county.

Grall turned state's evidence before the grand jury and was granted immunity along with his chief deputy, William G. Smith, now resigned, and Alfred G. Bauer, chairman of the Democratic central committee here.

The alleged operators and defendants are William Peer, Harry Ziegman, Stanton S. Hobbs, Dave Crawford, sr., and Dave Crawford, jr.

Refuses To Resign.

Grall refused to resign his office as demanded by Common Pleas Judges Guy B. Findley and D. A. Cook who upbraided him for continuing on duty and drawing salary "after admitting guilt."

Following his refusal to resign, Grall was placed under $10,000 bond as material witness. Smith and Bauer were under $2500 bonds. Grall's service bond in his office as sheriff also was raised from $15,000 to $30,000.

Grall formerly served three terms as mayor of Lorain and during one of those administrations, bribery indictments were returned against his safety director, C. C. Timberman, and four policemen.

Timberman was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary and charges against the policemen were dropped.

Grall has been prominent in politics in Lorain county for many years and was elected sheriff in 1936.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Offer of $500 Check No Lure to Endorse Whisky, Gin or Anything Else

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Believe it or not, I once was offered $500 for a testimonial for a brand of safety-razor blades, and at other times have been offered $500 for my endorsement of a brand of gin and the same for a whisky endorsement.

That seems to be my rating—$500. Not bad, but not tops, either, for some very famous people, such as actors, society women and athletes, have received as much as $5,000 per indorsement.

In the case of an athlete of national renown, that would be a small price for a cigaret or liquor indorsement, because all Americans want to be big and strong and proficient in sports, and they would take such testimony as an indication that smoking and drinking make for athletic prowess, sharpen the eye, develop stamina and all that. It is hard enough to keep children out of the saloons even now.

I turned down all three offers. I turned down the razor-blade offer because it made me feel good to think that I could set so high a price on my dignity.

Something of the same reason figured in my refusal of the gin and whisky propositions, but equally important, if not more so, was the cautious realization that people reading these tributes and then reading my stuff would say "that explains everything" or "cause and effect."

I am not telling what razor-blade company it was that offered me the $500, but I do not hesitate to say that I have used the blades for years and have found them very satisfactory. Of course, once in a great while I have come upon a blade that seemed to be somewhat saw-toothed, but I know that trifling slipups can occur in any business and gladly state that the blades are real good safety-razor blades.

I have also used others occasionally when I have been overnighting with some friends and have found them all right, too.

As to gin, frankly, I could give no honest testimonial for any particular brand, having no discrimination, although one of my best friends is way up in the gin business and tells me that there is all the difference in the world between his kind and some others.

The same for whisky. I can tell the difference between Scotch and the American kinds and between pet whisky and alley-cat whisky, but that's about all.

If it would be any comfort to the gin and whisky trades I would gladly say that I have enjoyed gin and whisky on many occasions, although I hope it will not be amiss for me to mention that that was a long time ago. It was three months ago come the 6th.

I noticed that none of the manufacturers, not even Gene Tunney, the soul and conscience of the distilled spirits industry in manufacturing pure, nutritious, character-building stimulants, had ben able to boil out the hangover ingredient, and I got sick and tired of waking up sick and tired.

I have smoked about every kind of cigaret there is—Lucky, Old Gold, Chesterfield, Rameses, Murad, Bull Durham, Philip Morris—and like them all, although my taste changes occasionally from the so-called Turkish to the so-called Virginia.

Once I owned a couple shares of Liggett & Myers B and smoked Chesterfields exclusively to protect my investment, but this was during a falling market, and I saw that I could not struggle against economic forces much stronger than myself. I think they are real good cigarets, though, and continue to smoke them frequently, although I am now out of the market.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The difference between a movie "gala premiere" and its legitimate stage equivalent is merely one of amperes, not of Booloo. (Paramountese for "Fur and Feathers," if you know your Movie Quiz.)

The preview of a quickie causes the blue of the local night to be slashed with a myriad of light spears; for a "gala premiere" the number of amperes consumed in electrical ballyhoo is trebled.

But when a big theatrical star brings a show to town, the Biltmore—local stronghold of the "legit" outside the Federal Theaters—simply lays down its trusty red carpet, puts up a few modest incandescents to illuminate the arriving celebrities who provide the Booloo, and lets the blue of the night alone. It also omits flowers.

And yet, when it comes to glamor-on-the-hoof, the "legit" attracts as well or better than the movie "gala." The movie stars turn out like Californians for an Iowa picnic—and with much the same nostalgic motives. They like to revel in memories of their good old days behind the footlights before Hollywood spoiled it all with its umpteen-a-week contracts and its insistence on feeding them sumptuously and regularly. They like to escape, if only for a little while, from the horrible prisons of their gilded Beverly Hills lives.

They turned out in extra-special Booloo the other eve when Gertrude Lawrence brought in "Susan and God." Miss Lawrence is a special favorite, obviously. If all the locals who speak of her as "Gert" really know her, she'll give the American Legion conclave some competition if she holds a reception. She hadn't been around since "Charlot's Revue" back around 1924.

That she once made a talkie called "The Battle of Paris" may have had something to do with this prolonged absence. Through no fault of Gert's—no, I haven't met her either—"The Battle of Paris" was not your greatest entertainment. If I know Gert—as I don't—it must have made her very, very ill. She might, conceivably, have brought in "Susan and God" to demonstrate that "The Battle of Paris" was a libel. If so, she succeeded beautifully.

So did the audience. The photographers, who stand in the lobby at the movie premieres, work inside the theater at the "legits." They flash on seated couples, arriving couples, chatting couples, silent couples with an agreeable air of leisure. This not only gives them a variety of pictures, but lets the rest of the customers know Who is Who, if not with Whom. It's all pleasantly informal, except for the Booloo which is so common among movie people that it's practically informal. Among the furred and feathered:

Marie Wilson (white fox) and fiancee, Nick Grinde; Virginia Bruce (red fox) and husband J. Walter Ruben; Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone; Hedy Lamarr (who got the biggest photographers' rush, naturally) and Reginald Gardiner; Fritz Lang and Heather Thatcher (both monocled); Anita Louise (hair "up"—and neat, too); John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie; the Frank Borzages (ermine on the missus?) and the Charles Boyers (Pat Paterson a picture of Suntan-and-white.)

VETERAN BRASS EMPLOYE DIES

D. C. Stafford, 78, Was One of First to Work For Company.

Daniel C. Stafford, 78, one of the first employes of the Ohio Brass company, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Don Cupp, Walker Lake road, after a brief illness. He was born in Ashland county, April 22, 1860.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Anna Ordway of Wyandotte, Mich.; Mrs. Corrine Linburgh of California, and Mrs. Cupp; three sons, Dallas of Green Lake, Mich., and Thomas and Daniel R., of Detroit; four brothers, Ben, Nathan and Thomas of Ashland county, and Maine of Iowa, and five grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home. Arrangements are incomplete.

Feller Fans 18 In 1938 Finale

But Master Bob Loses Game to Climax Whackiest Season of Baseball In Years.

By SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE baseball world took a deep breath today and wondered just a little how come it still retained some semblance of sanity at the windup of as whacky a season as the game ever had worked its way through.

There was still the problem of getting the World series out of the way, but that was up to the New York Yankees and Cubs, who begin the classic in Chicago Wednesday. The rest of the fellows finished their work yesterday, saving for the finale the silliest situation of all—Master Bobby Feller fanning 18 batsmen in one game for a new major league record, and losing the game.

Owners Win, Too.

Of course, there was no question of sanity involved when it came the magnates' turn to count the profits. The 1938 games drew 10,000,000.

Hardly any doubt existed that the two pennant races were the cause of the big payoff. In the

BOB FELLER

American league, the Yankees made it interesting by letting the other fellows make a fight if it through the entire first half. But when the Cleveland Indians went into their annual mid-summer night's dream, and the Boston Red Sox lost their one-and-only pitcher, Lefty Grove, the Yanks started to roll and rolled right in with their third straight pennant.

But for the tops in whacky ups-and-downs, the National league race had it. First, the Giants seemed to be on the way to a third straight flag. But the injury jinx finished them. Then Pittsburgh went out in front, but, like the Indians, the Pirates "choked up" when the going got tough. So it was up to Gabby Hartnett and his "we'll gamble on it" Cubs.

Surprise of the year, though, were the Cincinnati Reds under the game's No. 1 tactician and magician, Will McKechnie. He took the 1937 cellar occupants, put in a rookie here and an old timer there, and wound up in fourth place. They even put on a fancy finale yesterday by trouncing the Pirates, 5-4, while the St. Louis Cardinals, a dismal disappointment in sixth place, whipped the Cubs, 7-5. The Cincinnati pitcher in the windup was Johnny Vander Meer, who turned in the greatest hurling job of the year with two straight no-hit, no-run games, something never done before.

In the American league, the fourth-place finishers were the Detroit Tigers, who ended the campaign on the up-beat, taking the Indians twice, 4-1 and 10-8. It was in the opening game that Feller fanned his 18 for a new all-time high.

Dodgers Take Pair.

Brooklyn scored a doubleheader win over the Phillies yesterday, 7-3 and 7-2. By way of adding a few parting shots:

Casey Stengel, jinxed all the way, did a neat job of masterminding the Bees into fifth place in the National . . . They lost their finale 3-2, to the Giants yesterday, with Vince DiMaggio fanning four times for an unofficial season total of 129—a new big league record . . . Joe DiMaggio's 32nd homer gave the Yanks a 6-1 windup win over the Red Sox . . . A's and Senators split the finish—Washington 5-2 in the opener; Philadelphia 4-2 in the afterpiece. . . . Browns did the same with the White Sox: Buck Newsom clicking 4-3 in the first; the White Sox 3-0 in the second.

Rams Tackle Class A Foe Friday Night

Madison Seeks Fourth Win at Mt. Vernon.

Neighborhood high school teams will again find themselves in the midst of conference battles this week-end.

However, non-league games will hold their share of interest for followers of the doings on the scholastic gridirons.

Step Out of Class.

For instance, Madison's Rams, who have scored 155 points against Sunbury, New London and Crestline, step out of their class Friday night when they go to Mt. Vernon to engage Coach Paul Snyder's Jackets, blanked by Shelby, 20 to 0, last week.

Although below standard offensively, Mt. Vernon packs much strength in its line, and the speed of the Rams' high-scoring machine may be slowed up a bit. The Rams' Bill Wilkins and Gene Harmon will go into the game as two of the state's leading schoolboy scorers with 62 and 61 points, respectively.

Two N. C. O. conference tilts are on schedule. Bucyrus goes to Galion Friday night to give the undefeated Orangemen another test and Shelby travels to Ashland Saturday.

Shelby, with an uncrossed goal line, and Galion stack up as two of the strongest clubs in the circuit this season, and the outcome of their games this week will determine a lot as far as the race is concerned. The Ashland tilt will give a comparison of the strength of Shelby and Galion, which trimmed the A's, 21 to 6, last week.

Lift League Lid.

The league will be lifted on the Mid-State league campaign Friday afternoon at Bellville where Coach Royd Hodges' undefeated gridders are hosts to Loudonville, beaten only by Ashland. Mt. Gilead, another Mid-State team, goes to Sunbury, a team beaten decisively by Madison earlier in the season.

Other games on the schedule Friday afternoon take Centerburg to Fredericktown, Upper Sandusky to Crestline, Butler to Danville and Amherst to New London. Records follow:

Harriers Take Distant Trip

Their record showing one victory and one defeat, the harriers of Mansfield high school will go to Springfield for their next appearance Saturday.

Coach Harry Mehock's runners bowed to the defending state champion Akron East team, 19 to 39, over the Mansfield course Saturday

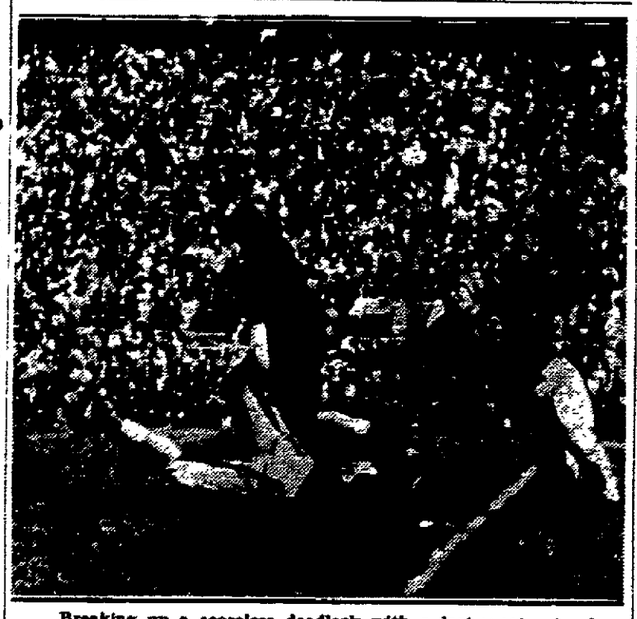
Three Akronites led the race timed over the two mile and a quarter route at 12 03 minutes Byron was first, Ricker, son of the coach, Larry Ricker a former Mansfielder, second, and Peters third

Bob Donnan led the Mansfielders in fourth place with Earl Bates next. Kesselring and Davis of Akron also finished in the points Williams, Dusty and Condon of Mansfield failed to score.

Schmidt's Bucks Start Work for Trojan Game

70,000 See Ohio State Beat Indiana, 6 to 0, After Being Pushed All Over Stadium.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Coach Francis Schmidt today tackled the formidable but not hopeless task of giving his 1938 Ohio State football machine a successful overhauling before the Bucks meet Southern California in Ohio Stadium next Saturday.



Breaking up a scoreless deadlock with a last-quarter touchdown, Ohio State won the first Western conference game of the season, 6 to 0, from a hard-fighting Indiana eleven Saturday. Oliver of the Hoosiers is pictured returning one of Kabealo's punts.—Central Press.

Schmidt and all of the 70,000 persons who saw the Bucks nose out Indiana, 6 to 0, in a jittery performance last Saturday realized that correction of several glaring weaknesses was in order before the Scarlet and Gray face the Trojans.

Sparked By Sophs.

The untried Bucks, sparked by sophomores, corrected many of the defects themselves in the heat of battle Saturday after the Hoosiers pushed them up and down the field without success for 50 of the 60 minutes.

Lack of charge in the heavy Buck line fixed much of the hot water in which Ohio State found itself so often. Tackling of Hoosier ball-carriers and passers was poor although this weakness might be due partly to first-game crudeness and partly to the elusivness of Indiana's shifty sophomore backs, Joe Nicholson, Harold Hursh and Joe Tofil.

Buck partisans also groaned over a gaping hole in the center of the Ohio State line but here, too, the performance improved as the game wore on. Two sophomore guards, Bill Nosker and Jerry Spears, and two juniors, Frank Smith and Vic Marino came out of the battle sadder and wiser.

Ohio State's passing performance, both offensively and defensively rose to expectations. The Hoosiers flashed a spectacular aerial attack but completed only seven of 24 attempted heaves. Alertness of the Buck secondary defense in covering potential receivers staved off touchdowns more than once. Co-Captain Mike Kabealo ended one Hoosier drive in the third period when he leaped high in the air and intercepted a pass on his own 16-yard stripe and weaved his way back to midfield before being tackled.

Schmidt's proteges tried only 12 passes, probably because the visitors controlled the ball so much of the time but the Bucks completed six of their tosses.

Most Important.

Most notable and important was the 10-yard touchdown pass from Jim Sexton to Don Scott, two sophomores, that climaxed the only sustained Ohio State march of the game in the fourth quarter.

K-B Coals Lose In Last Minute

Struthers A. C. Converts Interception of Pass Into Touchdown to Win by 12 to 6 Count.

By CHARLES MARTIN

AN INTERCEPTED forward pass late in the final quarter cost the Kallmerten and Baer semi-pro grid club an opportunity of battling a light and speedy Struthers A. C. team to a tie at League park Sunday.

With the score knotted at 6-all and only a minute to play, Mansfield, trying desperately to score, sent George Mays back to pass from his own 18, but the aerial never reached the intended receiver for Gentile snatched it out of the air and galloped across to enable his club to topple the Mansfielders, 12 to 6.

Kickoff Ends Game.

It didn't matter when Timer missed the point from placement as the gun ended the game just as the next kickoff soared into the air. George Hummel caught the ball, but was smothered before he could get started.

Only once during the contest did the Coals display any of the power they possessed last week. For three periods Struthers gave Mansfield all they cared to handle in one afternoon.

Struthers pushed over the first marker near the end of the opening half and held a 6 to 0 advantage until midway in the last chapter. At that point the Mansfield outfit opened up with a running attack that carried it from its own 31 into pay dirt.

Vern Heiser, the only Mansfield back who could pick up any yardage, did most of the ball lugging on the march. He carried the mail to the four-yard marker and Mays slashed through tackle for the score. Tony Schadek's attempted placement was low. The Coals chalked up five first downs on the drive.

Mansfield halted a Struthers' march a little later on the visitors' 48 and it looked as though the affair would end in a tie. But Carcelli, 140-pound back that Mansfield had trouble stopping, punted out of bounds on the Coals' nine. And two plays later Mansfield had the pass intercepted.

Either club was able to penetrate deep into enemy territory in the opening half. Struthers' opening touchdown was aided by a Mansfield fumble which it recovered on the Coals' 22. Carcelli took complete charge and in two plays skirted his right end for the score. Kimmel's attempted pass for the point was batted down by a host of Mansfielders.

Outplays Coals.

The opening half developed into a punting dual between Carcelli and Mays up until the time Mansfield fumbled. Struthers outplayed Mansfield in the first and second chapters, registering four first downs to one.

After the intermission Mansfield penetrated to the invaders' 28, but was stopped cold at that point.

The visitors received another break in the third stanza when they recovered another Mansfield fumble, this time on the 16. But the Coals' forward wall turned back three thrusts before Timer tried a field goal which was low.

Rams Win One, Defeat Lions

Fumble by Dutch Clark Sets Stage for Victory.

(By United Press)

The Chicago Bears and Washington's Red Skins, headed the standings of their respective divisions and were the only undefeated clubs in the circuit today.

The Red Skins were idle over the week-end, but the Bears scored their third consecutive victory, 28-6, over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Yesterday's surprise was Cleveland's 21-17 victory over the Detroit Lions, regarded as one of the most improved clubs in the league. Playing their first game under Art Lewis, the Rams scored their second victory since becoming members of the big circuit. A fumble by Earl (Dutch) Clark on his 12-yard line set the stage for Cleveland's winning touchdown in the last period. Jim Benton recovered for the Rams and after the ball had been worked to the three, Corby Davis crashed off tackle for the tally.

All-Stars Win At Field Day

Niedhammer Leads Attack in 14-7 Victory.

Led by Neidhammer, who collected a triple, double and single, the WPA All-Stars defeated Brady's WPA champions, 14 to 7, in the softball game that featured the field day at the Armory Saturday. Smith and Corfutt hit home runs for the winners.

Contest winners: Pat Miller, 50-yard dash; Catherine Palm, 50-yard dash for girls; Ed and James Brady, 2-leg wheelbarrow race for boys; Eugene Elliott and Walter Brady, 2-leg wheelbarrow race for men; James Brady, blindfold walk from home to second; Ed Pelasky, catchers' throw and pitcher's throw; George Hynes, balloon breaking; Marjorie Miller, hop stick race girls; Bill Harding, hop stick race boys.

NEWARK EVENS PLAYOFF, BEATS KANSAS CITY, 12-4

NEWARK, N. J. — (AP) — The Kansas City Blues of the American association and the Newark Bears of the International league, both members of the far-flung New York Yankee farm system, carried their family feud into the third game of the 1938 Little World Series tonight with the score even up.

The Blues drew first blood in Saturday's opener of the minor league baseball classic as Southpaw Kep Wicker, an ex-Bear, shut out the 1937 Little World Series winners 3 to 0. But yesterday Newark won 12 to 4.

Intersectional Games Top Ohio Grid Schedule

By RUSSELL FULLER

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Three intersectional battles, two Buckeye conference tilts and eight Ohio conference clashes loomed on the football horizon in Ohio today as collegiate elevens lost no time in returning to practice after Saturday's bruising games.

On the Pacific coast, the University of Southern California's men of Troy prepared to move eastward for Saturday's battle in Ohio Stadium with Ohio State, the week's headliner.

In other intersectional duels, Carnegie Tech goes to Springfield to met a weak Wittenberg eleven and Washington and Jefferson, no stranger in Ohio, moves into New Concord for a round or two with Muskingum's undefeated aggregation

Buckeye conference activities swing into full momentum with Dayton's Quaker State Express and Cincinnati meeting in Cincinnati. Both teams are undefeated.

Two more undefeated Buckeye elevens, Marshall and Miami, line up in a league game in Huntington. Both contestants have high scoring backfields. Miami, having run up 91 points in two tries and Marshall 108

Ohio conference warfare will be featured by the Denison-Wooster scrap in Wooster, with the winner probably going on to cop the conference title.

Ashland's game squad plays in Bowling Green and in Cleveland, Baldwin-Wallace and John Carroll will oppose each other in a titanic struggle.

Other conference games are Kent State at Findlay, Heidelberg at Mt. Union, Kenyon at Oberlin and Capital at Ohio Northern and Otterbein at Marietta.

Remaining games are Xavier at Akron, Lehigh at Case, Hiram at Grove City, Ohio University at Western Reserve, Ohio Wesleyan at Toledo, Youngstown at St. Vincent's of Latrobe, Pa.

Orientals Play Here Saturday

Tygers Stage Comeback Against Clark; Rely On Running Game to Win, 40 to 19.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

FEAR that the decisive whipping administered by the football juggernaut of Massillon 10 days ago might have a demoralizing affect on the Tygers for the remainder of the current campaign was blasted out at Stadium field last Saturday.

Coach Russ Murphy's clan of gridmen did not look like the same team that bowed to the defenders of the state crown as it walloped the Hammond, Ind., Clark Pioneers, 40 to 19, in an offensive spectacle witnessed by 3,000.

The Mansfield high school gridders produced their best performance of the new season against the Hoosiers, and reestablished themselves with their skeptical followers.

Of course, it is admitted that the Tygers did not meet a club as strong as Massillon in the Pioneers, but the visitors were no weaklings by any means, and they made it interesting for the home prides, especially, Frank Shimala, one of Indiana's greatest schoolboy halfbacks.

Mansfield's next foe is Columbus East, which comes to Stadium field next Saturday, and the Tygers gave the Orientals' scouts a good demonstration of what a team can do on land with the proper execution of plays.

Running Game Features Win.

THE Tygers opened up a running game Saturday such as Mansfield followers have not witnessed in some time. Mixing sharp stabs at the line with wide runs effectively, the Men of Murphy accumulated one of their biggest scores in years.

Defensively, Mansfield showed up only fair, but this was probably due more to the brilliance of Shimala than anything else. Shimala was the peer of all ball toters to appear at Stadium field this year.

Mansfield found it impossible to stop Shimala consistently. He obtained all but eight of the 185 yards the visitors gained from rushing, and contributed a pair of touchdowns, one on a 34-yard jaunt in which he carried half of the Mansfield team over the goal line, and the other on a 14-yard romp.

Mansfield's lineup also produced outstanding performances. Joe Lehr's blocking was almost perfect. Ed Goettle, Russ Beer and Grover Swoyer also blocked well.

Harold Gallagher was unmovable on the defense, while Marshall Smith did a brilliant job of leading the interference from a guard post, and later in the game distinguished himself in a halfback post. The intelligence of Lehr and Mike Horvath in their selection of plays was commendable.

In addition to Marshall Smith, the ball toters who stood out were Capt. Rich Nagle, who picked up 126 yards; Howard Hershey and Ike Smith.

Hershey was the scoring leader with three touchdowns. Nagle, Ike Smith and Al Schwaner contributed the other scores. Schwaner kicked four extra points. He missed his first placement this season in the second period after converting six in a row.

The Mansfield backs reeled off nine runs of 10 yards or more as they accumulated 326 yards from scrimmage, with a 22-yard broken field run by Hershey in the third period a feature.

Shimala, who averaged nearly nine yards for the 20 times he lugged the leather, pulled off a 39-yard run in addition to his 34-yard touchdown romp, and got one of the biggest ovations any visiting player ever received at Stadium field when he was removed from the game late in the fourth period with a twisted ankle after Jack Dugger brought him to the ground with a perfect tackle.

Lemunyon's Run Highlight of Game.

THE highlight of the game was not a touchdown play, but a return of a kickoff by Harold Lemunyon in the fourth quarter. The red-headed speedster took the kick after Hammond's last touchdown on the 10 and zig-zagged his way through the entire Pioneer team with the aid or some nifty blocking. Not a hand was placed on the fleet-footed halfback until Shimala came from behind to bring him to earth on the visitors' 22. It was by far the most spectacular run witnessed at the Tyger lair this autumn.

Although they completed seven out of 12 throws for another remarkable passing percentage, the Tygers scored only one touchdown via the aerial route.

The Tygers, whose big quarter was the second in which they tallied 20 points, notched four touchdowns from the ground and the other from an interception.

Mansfield showed considerably more deception with their passes, and would have completed several more had receivers not bobbled perfect throws from the hands of Nagle and Schwaner.

Murphy's men played alert and spectacular football. After Hammond scored the first touchdown to take a 7 to 0 lead, it chose to kickoff. The Tygers immediately turned it into a touchdown.

Figuring the odds were against a duplication, the Pioneers again elected to kick off after the next touchdown, and again the Tygers scored without hesitation. The Pioneers resorted to more orthodox strategy thereafter.

Murphy's Tygers Outsmart Visitors.

MANSFIELD outsmarted the heavier visitors continually. In the second period, for instance, the Tygers drew a 15-yard penalty on third down that returned the ball to Mansfield's 20.

But instead of running the ball or punting as the Pioneers expected, Nagle shot a flat pass to Ike Smith from punt formation and the latter was not brought to the ground until he reached the 41. This play was instrumental in giving the Tygers their third score.

About the only part of the Mansfield play which was ragged was the kicking and the defensive play of the ends and tackles, and these are the subjects which will come in for most of the attention as the Tygers prepare for the Columbusites this week.

Only four of the players who started in the Massillon game were in the lineup at the kickoff Saturday, and it is not likely that any radical changes will be made for the next appearance. The

Lorain Boy Stars For Wolves

University of Michigan served warning on the Big Ten by winning the first game of the season, 14 to 0, over its traditional rival, Michigan State. The Woverines displayed a strong running attack, with Harmon and Kromer starring. Kromer (No. 33) of Lorain, O., is pictured ripping off a gain around State's left end in the second period. It was Michigan's first game under its new coach, Fritz Crisler.

shakeup, apparently, produced the desired results.

The Tygers scored their first touchdown late in the opening period when Nagle plunged over from the six where Ike Smith had placed the ball on a nice 18-yard sweep. The touchdown culminated a 71-yard march and Schwaner added the point to tie the score, 7 to 7, the visitors' touchdown coming on a pass from Shimala to Quarterback Groat from the 24 after recovering a Mansfield fumble on the 27.

A 65-yard drive was turned into a touchdown in the second frame. With Nagle and Ike Smith doing most of the ball carrying, the Tygers scored from the five on a thrust through tackle by Hershey.

Schwaner bucked over the third score for the Tygers from the one after a clipping penalty nullified Hershey's touchdown. Hershey took a pass that bounced off a visitor's helmet on the 54 and went all the way, but the play was called back.

Tygers Hold 27-13 Lead at Half.

THE Tygers held a 27 to 13 lead at the intermission, Hammond's other touchdown coming just before the gun on Shimala's wide run from the 14.

Mansfield threatened several times in the second half, but scored only twice. Hershey's 22-yard run featured the first of the third quarter scores. The Tygers marched 92 yards to score after taking the ball on downs on the eight. Ike Smith went over from the one.

Murphy's gridmen completed the scoring on the last play of the game. Mansfield was given the ball on Hammond's 32 on a poor punt, and the Tygers promptly turned it into another six points, Hershey going over from the 10 after Marshall Smith had placed the pigskin in scoring territory.

Hammond's third and last touchdown came shortly before the Tygers' last score when Shimala romped into pay dirt from the 34 on one of the more spectacular runs of the day.

Power, Passes Decide Major Grid Tussles

Ohio, Columbia Employ Air Games to Triumph.

By DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Power and passing, twin genii of offensive football, continue to make—and break—the gridiron powers as the season, launched by two clamorous heads into a week-end filled with traditional, intersectional and conference contests.

Power alone was the deciding factor as Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Duke, Santa Clara and Cornell swept forward last Saturday at the head of the national parade. Resurgent Columbia, Ohio State and North Carolina all gained stature on the forward pass, which, however, failed signally for Rice, shaded 7-6 by Oklahoma in the day's major upset. Here's how the situation looks in various major sectional groups:

EAST: Columbia, off to a notable start in the "Ivy League" as Sid Luckman bombed Yale for a 27-14 win, takes on Army, victorious over Virginia Tech 39-0 in its second warmup. Yale, due to improve, faces Penn, 34-6 winner over Lafayette. Cornell, under wraps as it beat Colgate 15-6, plays Harvard, while Princeton and Dartmouth, still untested by real opposition, come together. Navy, 26-0 winner over Virginia Military encounters Virginia.

Pittsburgh, still tops in the more potent "poison ivy" group after a 28-6 triumph over Temple, meets its neighbor, Duquesne.

BIG TEN: The oldest and most rugged conference really swings into action after seven extra-circuit and one conference clash which saw Ohio State take the early lead with a 6-0 decision over Indiana. The Buckeyes next take on Southern California, 7-0 winner over Oregon State on the west coast. Minnesota, the powerhouse which conquered Nebraska 16-7, moves into conference action against Purdue, 21-6 winner over Butler. Iowa, after a week off, takes on Wisconsin, which walloped Marquette 27-0. Michigan, 14-0 winner over Michigan State in the Wolverines' first game, faces Chicago's weak team. Indiana tries a comeback at the expense of Illinois, 44-7 winner over De Paul. Northwestern, after whipping Kansas State, 21-0, plays Drake.

Notre Dame, back in the picture as a national power after whipping Kansas 52-0, goes south to play Georgia Tech.

Oklahoma, which brought the Big Six most of its glory with a 7-6 triumph over Rice, meets twice-beaten Texas.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE: Duke and North Carolina, perennial paladins of this uneven group, whipped Davidson, 27-0, and North Carolina State, 21-0, respectively, to share the lead with two victories apiece. While the Blue Devils visit Colgate this week, the Tar Heels take on Tulane, which played its third straight scoreless tie with Auburn.

SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE: Alabama, although untested in the conference, remains the outstanding team in the circuit. The Tidesmen eased off with a 34-0 win over Howard and face N. C. State next. Auburn-Tennessee, Vanderbilt-Kentucky and Sewanee-Florida are the main conference pairings.

* * *

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE: Davey O'Brien pitched Texas Christian right into the conference lead when his aerial acrobatics beat Arkansas 21-14.

Intersectional games still are in order, with S. M. U., after a 29-7 win over Arizona, meeting Marquette, T. C. U. playing Temple, and Texas A. and M. going west to meet Santa Clara.

PACIFIC COAST: Oregon, rather surprisingly, heads the conference standing after downing U. C. L. A., 14-12 for its second triumph and has an open date ahead. Meanwhile the rather discredited favorites, Washington and Southern California, hit the comeback road. Washington, tied by Idaho, plays U. C. L. A., and Southern California, hard pressed to beat Oregon State, 7-0, visits Ohio State. Stanford, thumped by Santa Clara, takes on Washington State, 27-3 victim of California's Bears.

Let Us Be

POPEYE—You Can't Do This To Me. By Segar

WE MUST DO SOMETHING NICE FOR THE DEMONS FOR SAVING US FROM KING CABOOSO, MAYBE THEY'D LIKE SOME NICE, FRESH KA-BABAGES
GLOP
HERE COMES CABOOSO! AN' IS HE EMBARRISKED? ARF! ARF!
I DEMAND AN AUDIENCE WITH KING SWEE'PEA! HE'S RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DISAPPEARANCE OF MY ARMY!
THAT'S A FINE WAY TO CONDUCT A WAR!··· I COME OVER WITH MY VERY BEST ARMY AND YOU DO A THING LIKE THAT TO ME····
HERE WE ARE NEIGHBORING COUNTRIES AND YOU KIDNAP ALL MY TROOPS
IF YOU DON'T GIVE ME BACK MY ARMY, I'LL CALL THE WHOLE WAR OFF!

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—"Night—Stage For Tragedies." By Harold Gray

THE KNOCKOUT DROPS KEEP JACK SLEEPING SOUNDLY TILL ACE, DRIVING THE HALF MILLION DOLLAR LOAD, HAS TIME TO TOP THE RIDGE - GUDGE'S HENCHMEN, OF COURSE, CAN NOT KNOW THAT JACK IS NOT THE DRIVER -
AH··· HERE THEY COME, I THINK - BUT I MUST WAIT TILL I'M SURE -
10-3-38
NOW! LET HIM HAVE IT, BOYS!
OW! I'M HIT!
IT AIN'T JACK! IT'S ACE!
LOOK OUT!
MIDNIGHT - GUDGE WILL BE EXPECTING ACE TO MEET HIM BY THE OLD WELL IN THE ORCHARD - IT WOULD BE A SHAME TO LET HIM WAIT ALONE···· AH-H-H-H YES INDEED - SOME ONE SHOULD KEEP HIM COMPANY-

PAM—"This Lad, Penfield!" By A. W. Brewerton

NOT MANY NIGHTS LATER PAM HAS ANOTHER DATE WITH KEITH PAIGE!
MINGLING WITH WEALTH AGAIN TONIGHT, HEY?
YES, WE'RE GOING TO DINNER AND THEN TO A SHOW AFTERWARDS.
SOUNDS GRAND!
PAIGE WAS A GOOD TALKER AND PAM ENJOYED LISTENING TO HIM
YES, I ONCE MET THE CHAP WHO WROTE THIS PLAY — HE'S HAD A VERY UNUSUAL LIFE
10-3
AGAIN, PAM ENJOYED THE EVENING, IMMENSELY!
I'M SO GLAD IF YOU DID ENJOY YOURSELF, LITTLE LADY — MAKES ME HAPPY TO KNOW IT. GOOD-NIGHT,
SHE HAS A LOT OF DATES — NOW THIS LAD PENFIELD — IN HER OFFICE — VERY LIKELY HE'S THE FAVORITE — I'LL HAVE TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT THAT!

THE NEBBS—The Banker. By Sol Hess

SAY, THAT BROTHER STEVE OF YOURN CAME IN AND TOOK UP YOUR MORTGAGE - I TOLD HIM IT WASN'T DUE SO HE SAID HE'D PAY UP ALL THE INTEREST TIL IT WAS DUE WELL, WHAT'S WRONG WITH THAT?
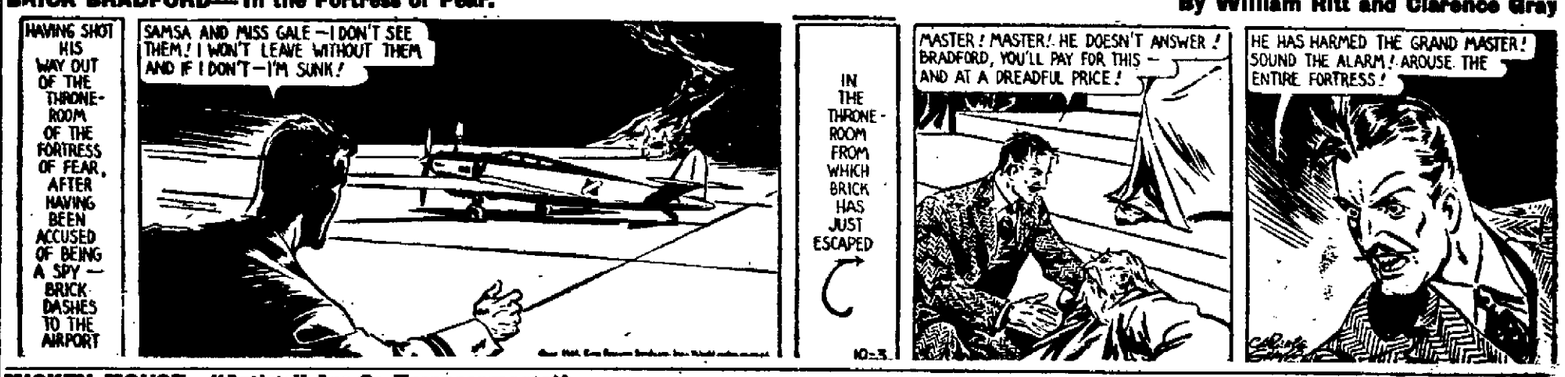
IT WAS ONE OF THE BANK'S GOOD SAFE LOANS AND I DON'T LIKE TO SEE THAT KIND GO OUT.
I DON'T SEE WHY NOT - IT'S BEEN DRAGGING ALONG FOR A LONG TIME - I SHOULD THINK YOU'D BE GLAD TO SAY 'BYE-BYE' TO IT!!
THAT WAS ONE OF THE FEW I WAS GETTIN' SIX PER CENT ON - I WISH HE'D KEEP HIS NOSE OUTTA OTHER PEOPLE'S AFFAIRS BUT NO NEBB EVER LIVED COULD DO THAT!

BRICK BRADFORD—In the Fortress of Fear. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray



HAVING SHOT HIS WAY OUT OF THE THRONE-ROOM OF THE FORTRESS OF FEAR, AFTER HAVING BEEN ACCUSED OF BEING A SPY — BRICK DASHES TO THE AIRPORT
SAMSA AND MISS GALE — I DON'T SEE THEM! I WON'T LEAVE WITHOUT THEM AND IF I DON'T — I'M SUNK!
IN THE THRONE-ROOM FROM WHICH BRICK HAS JUST ESCAPED
MASTER! MASTER! HE DOESN'T ANSWER! BRADFORD, YOU'LL PAY FOR THIS — AND AT A DREADFUL PRICE!
HE HAS HARMED THE GRAND MASTER! SOUND THE ALARM! AROUSE THE ENTIRE FORTRESS!

MICKEY MOUSE—"Artists" Are So Temperamental! By Walt Disney

EARLY IN THE EVENING, PIPER, THE PLUMBER, STARTS FOR THE POTTSGOLD HOUSE TO FINISH SOME INCOMPLETED WORK!
SURE Y' WON'T NEED ME, MR. PIPER?
NO — I'LL HANDLE THIS MYSELF! YOU CAN LOCK UP AND GO HOME!
THIS NIGHT WORK IS A NUISANCE! CONFOUND THESE FUSS-BUDGET CLIENTS, ANYWAY!
WHAT A GUY! HE'S HAD ALL DAY WITH NOTHIN' TO DO — AND WORKIN' TONIGHT WAS HIS OWN DOPEY IDEA!
A DOPEY IDEA? SURE — IT MUST BE! HE COULDN'T HAVE ANY REASON FOR WANTING TO — SHUCKS, NOW I'M GETTIN' DOPEY!

TRADERS CASH RALLY PROFITS IN QUIET MART

Mild Recovery Signs in Evidence Near Second Hour; Trends Indefinite.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock market traders today dragged in some of the profits accruing from last week's sharp rally and leading issues stepped back moderately.

Dealings were rather quiet at the start. Mild recovery signs were in evidence near the second hour.

While trends were indefinite, there were a number of resistant stocks, a few, including Sperry Corp., U. S. Gypsum and Crane Co. edging into new high ground for the year.

Minor losses were posted for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, International Harvester, J. I. Case, Western Union, Anaconda, International Nickel, General Electric and N. Y. Central.

Modest plus signs were displayed by United Aircraft, Dupont, Owens-Illinois, Santa Fe, American Telephone and Sears Roebuck.

The European influence seemed to have lost its market power and analysts returned to their study of domestic business developments, most of which were fairly reassuring.

PENSIONERS IN COUNTY UNITE

Join State Society, Endorse Program to Take Aid for Aged Out of Politics.

any other club," at least a dozen pensioners walked out of Saturday's meeting when Johnson asked for a motion to organize.

Johnson's only reference to the $200-a-month Townsend plan was: "I think most of us would rather have $50 or $60 a month now than a dream of $200 later on."

Johnson said his organization, which has clubs in 31 counties in the state, was responsible for the $10 pension increase granted in 1936, although Gov. Davey claimed credit for it."

"Our society is independent of politics, but we want to know how candidates for office this fall stand on the pension question, and we're sending out questionnaires to all of them," Johnson added.

As a suggestion for "getting pensions out of politics," he advocated a non-partisan board of three members, appointed by the governor and welfare department, to administer the aid for aged division.

He said the club would ask the state legislature to amend the pension law so that pension applications would not remain in the county pension office more than 60 days or in the state office over 30 days. There is no time limit now.

He also advocated returning property deeds and insurance policies to pensioners. Under the present plan, persons cannot receive pensions until they have turned their properties and insurance over to the state.

COURT OPENS

6 Cases on Petit Jury Docket as Fall Term Begins.

Trial of a suit for industrial compensation opened the September court term for the Richland county petit jury at the courthouse this morning.

The jurors, who have six cases scheduled for hearing this week, considered an action in which Ernest Stafford, former employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, seeks compensation payments for injuries he allegedly received while at work in 1926.

Stafford contends the Ohio Industrial commission discontinued his compensation two years ago on the grounds that his permanent injuries were not the result of an accident. He is represented at the hearing by Attys Cowan, Adams and Adams, Columbus.

collision caused a short circuit on top of the pole. Pinned in the car with sparks flying in all directions, I wondered if we were doomed to be burned alive."

The men were enroute from Fremont, O., to Columbus, where Rogers was to have boarded a plane. They were rescued from the wreckage of their car by occupants of a bus who took them to the hospital. Rogers immediately telephoned Miss Pickford in New York. She was expected to arrive here by plane before noon.

Dr. Verne Dodge, who treated Rogers, said the injuries were minor and that the orchestra leader would be up and about in two or three days.

Mary Pickford Flies to Columbus.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Mary Pickford hastened to Newark airport early today and boarded a transport plane for Columbus, O., immediately upon receiving a first hand report from her husband, Charles "Buddy" Rogers on the extent of injuries he suffered in an automobile accident this morning.

Rogers called his movie-star wife at her New York hotel as soon as a telephone was made available to him and cheerfully told her that he had suffered only torn ligaments in his right arm and minor body bruises.

Nevertheless, Miss Pickford motored at once to Newark and there boarded at 7:30 a. m. plane for Columbus where the orchestra leader was brought following the accident.

PLANNING TEST

Auditor to Attack Bridge Law on New Purchase.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson planned today to attack the constitutionality of the Ohio bridge law as he prepared to seek a temporary injunction in common pleas court to prevent the Huntington National bank from delivering East Liverpool bridge bonds to New York bankers.

"The bridge law allows the bridge commission to issue bonds for undetermined amounts," he said, "while the state constitution says that bonds must not be issued in excess of $750,000 without a vote of the people. I will attack the constitutionality of the bridge law in the supreme court."

Meanwhile Assistant Attorney General A. F. O'Neill prepared a petition for the temporary injunction which Ferguson said would stop the sale of the East Liverpool bridge over the Ohio river to the state for $2,135,000.

DAVEY SUED IN PENSION GROUP

Suit Blames Governor for 'National Scandal' Caused by Defying U. S.

vestigate the need of all recipients, specially those whose awards have been increased without investigation; to give notice to all persons whose applications are denied; to prepare an accurate report of number of old age pension recipients; to co-ordinate the work of the aid for the aged division; to publish all rules and regulations, policies and procedures governing administration; to replace all unqualified employes and to insure that all employes of the state agency perform their duties in the interest of a non-political and non-discriminatory administration."

Charges brought by Byers in his suit were similar to those made by the social security board in suspending federal aid last Saturday.

Byers declared in his action that "through the inefficient, negligent and corrupted administration, by which the defendants have attempted to administer aid to the needy aged in Ohio, there has been a gross waste and dissipation of public funds."

He added that "the handling of poor relief in Ohio is already a national scandal and the attention of the world has been constantly drawn to the callousness and disorder of government in Ohio and that such publicity has already resulted in incalculable harm to the civic and business reputation of Ohio."

'NO REGRETS,' CHAMBERLAIN SAYS OF 'DEAL'

'Have Nothing to Withdraw,' Premier Tells Commons on Four-Power Pact.

lini and his son-in-law and foreign minister, Count Ciano, who first evolved a basis for discussion at Munich.

But, Chamberlain said, "the strongest force of all was that sense of the unmistakable unanimity among the peoples of the world that war somehow must be averted."

Chamberlain promised a cheering house to build on the foundations he had already laid toward a towering structure of peace for Europe and the world.

He declared he could see chances for disarmament "opening up before us."

Government supporters gave him tremendous applause as he resumed his seat at 4:25 p. m. (11:25 a. m., EST) after speaking 53 minutes.

In concluding he said that the "lesson we should learn from last week was that lasting peace was not to be attained by sitting still and waiting for it to come. It required active and positive efforts."

Then the attack on the Munich accord, begun by Duff Cooper, was resumed by Clement R. Atlee, leader of the labor opposition, who called the pact "a victory for brute force."

"We have seen the cause of democracy, civilization and humanity receive a terrible defeat," said Atlee.

The 69-year-old prime minister, whose untiring will brought about peace at a price which satisfied Hitler, after listening to Duff Cooper's scathing attack, hammered home again and again his conviction that he had given the world's millions what they wanted more than anything else—escape from the stark horrors of war.

Before he finished he set himself this task: "Gradual removal of hostility between nations until they feel they can safely discard their weapon one by one."

To this he promised to put his hand an brain "before I hand my office to a younger man."

With angry words and gestures, Chamberlain refused to let his critics brand him with shame for his deal with Hitler.

'Only Foundation.'

He admitted that the four men at Munich had laid "only the foundation of peace." But he envisaged a superstructure in the making for Hitler, Chamberlain told the house he believed there was sincerity and good will on both sides at Munich and challenged anyone to deny that friendship between Britain and Germany is vital to Europe.

Atlee charged that "Czechoslovakia has been betrayed" and Chamberlain "has been duped by dictators."

Hitler, he said, "has overthrown the balance of power in Europe," destroyed "the last fortress of democracy in eastern Europe and opened the way to food and oil resources which he requires in order to consolidate his military power."

Atlee, denouncing the four-power arrangement, declared "there should be a real peace conference to which they should call in America and Russia, a conference to which people would come not merely to rattle the saber."

The labor chieftain was followed by Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the opposition liberals, who asserted that "the government's foreign policy brought us to the edge of war and that policy can never be the foundation for a lasting peace."

Chamberlain told an intent house of commons today that "I have nothing to withdraw or regret" concerning the four-power accord of Munich for the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

'On Brink of War.'

"When the house met last Wednesday," the prime minister recalled, "we were under the shadow of a great and imminent menace. War, more stark and terrible than it had ever appeared before, seemed to be staring us in the face. . . .

"Today we know that the prayers of millions (for peace) have been answered."

Cooper, who quit the cabinet Saturday, broke into bitter sobbing today as he told the excited house of commons that he had tried to swallow the four-power Munich accord terms "but they stuck in my throat."

Speaking before Chamberlain in a full dress debate on the accord that averted a European war, the former first lord of the admiralty explained his resignation with a bitter denunciation of the way Chamberlain directed British policy throughout the crisis over Czechoslovakia.

He declared that Britain must be prepared to fight against any other attempt by any nation to dominate Europe by force, and added:

"For that principle we must ever be ready to fight, for on the day we are not prepared to fight for it we shall have forfeited our empire, our liberty and our independence."

Gets Ovation.

Chamberlain, appearing to defend his "peace with honor" deal with the dictators of Germany and Italy, received a tremendous ovation from government supporters as he entered the house. His followers left their seats to give him a roaring reception as he took his seat on the treasury bench.

The diplomatic gallery was packed by representatives of almost every country in the world, including United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, for the opening of a full dress debate on the Munich bargain for the partitioning of Czechoslovakia.

Cooper rose immediately to explain his position.

"I felt lonely and isolated," he said, when he heard Chamberlain from a window of No. 10 Downing street tell a cheering crowd last Friday that he had returned with "peace with honor."

"That there was cause for relief last week, I am aware but that there was cause for self-congratulation I am not certain," Cooper said.

Amid the cheering, William Gallacher, only communist member of the House of Commons, shouted at Chamberlain:

"Shameful! Hitler's yesman!"

"The great defeat of our foreign policy of recent months and recent weeks is that we have failed to make it plain to other countries," Duff Cooper said.

He said Britain should "let them know where you stand and what, in certain circumstances, you are prepared to do."

Parliament reconvened after its recess which began so dramatically last Wednesday when Chamberlain announced the invitation from Adolf Hitler to come to Munich for the conference which redrew the map of central Europe.

Chamberlain had reviewed the situation in a brief cabinet meeting before facing the House of Commons.

Says Pension Plan Brings Problem of Aged to Front

"The Townsend movement has made aged people a reality and brought the nation's attention to a forgotten people," Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, said last night in a sermon to which he had invited Townsend followers to hear.

"There has been much criticism of the Townsend plan," Rev. Swoyer said. "but it is no more unsound than some of the principles of economics the nation is trying to work out now."

Urging youth to work and save and plan for the future, he asserted that "a pension plan may work today and be made unsound tomorrow by a change of government with which this country is threatened."

"Even old people must work to live. They want to keep occupied, because when a man quits work he dies," Rev. Swoyer said.

"Don't neglect your mind and memory," he added. "Women go to the beauty parlor to have their faces prettied, but do they ever take their brains to a beauty shop?"

Quoting from the philosophy of the late Dr. Frank Crane, he said "Work, growth and faith throughout life will prepare one for a happy and secure old age."

SHELBY COUPLE WED IN CHURCH

SHELBY—In a quiet ceremony at the First Lutheran church Saturday, Miss Katherine Heyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Heyde of Shelby, was united in marriage to James Shepherd of this city. Rev. D. B. Young performed the ceremony. The couple were unattended.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd left for a motor trip and will make their home in Shelby upon their return. The bride has been employed at the Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company. The groom is employed at the Ohio Fuel Gas company here.

FATHER DOOMED

Death Penalty Ordered In Kentucky Assault Case.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky.—(U.P.)—A Whitley county jury today decreed the death penalty for Sam Gilley, father of four children, accused of assaulting a 14-year-old girl.

The jury deliberated from 4 p. m. Saturday until 9 a. m. today. Judge J. J. Tye of Barbourville will pass sentence later. It was the second time the death penalty had been invoked in the county.

SALES INCREASE

August Volume 10 Per Cent Ahead of Preceding Month.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—August retail sales in Ohio, although 21 per cent under in dollar volume those for August, 1937, were 10 per cent ahead of sales in July, 1938, Ohio State university's bureau of business research has reported.

All of Ohio's major cities had gains over July, according to data furnished the bureau through the federal department of commerce. Cleveland, Toledo and Youngstown led the list, and Akron had the smallest gain.

Columbus, however, reported the smallest decrease in total sales from August of last year, while Youngstown had the greatest.

The report covered larger independent stores in 21 kinds of business.

SUPREME COURT BEGINS DEBATE ON 350 CASES

Justices Open New Term With Tribute to Cardoza; New Attorneys Admitted.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The supreme court opened its new 1938 term today by paying tribute to Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, who died last July.

As soon as the black-robed justices filed into the marble-columned chamber, Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes delivered a brief eulogy of the late jurist.

A vacant chair served as a reminder that a successor to Justice Cardozo has not yet been appointed by President Roosevelt.

Hughes said the court had suffered an "irreparable loss" in Justice Cardozo's death.

After adjournment of the brief session, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson said argument of the TVA case had been postponed from Oct. 17 to Nov. 14 because of the nomination of one of the government's attorneys, John Lord O'Brien, by the Republican party as its candidate for United States senator from New York.

The court, reassembling for an eight-months term, found a bumper crop of litigation—including fresh attacks on major administartion laws—awaiting its attention.

The first session after a summer recess is limited to admitting attorneys to practice and hearing motions. For the next week, however, the eight justices will be busy passing on approximately 350 petitions for review of lower court decisions which have accumulated during the four-month adjournment.

Next Monday arguments will begin on cases the court agreed last spring to review.

Mooney Action Up.

Among the petitions awaiting action is an appeal by Thomas J. Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin penitentiary for complicity in the 1916 Preparedness day parade bombing in San Francisco. He lost his fight for freedom before the California supreme court.

These also are several controversies growing out of the interpretations of the national labor relations act, including the Ford Motor company case.

Speculation was renewed as the court convened over when President Roosevelt is likely to fill the vacancy caused by the death last July 9 of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo. The belief was widespread that he would wait until congress meets next January. The senate must confirm any nomination to be a member of the court.

There have been rumors that some of the present justices might retire soon on account of age. Those mentioned are 81-year-old Louis D. Brandeis and 76-year-old James C. McReynolds. Neither has given any indication, however, that he planned to leave the bench.

The ages of other members of the court are Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, 76; Justices Pierce Butler, 72; Harlan F. Stone, 67; Owen J. Roberts, 63; Stanley F. Reed, 53, and Hugo L. Black, 52.

It was a year ago tomorrow that Justice Black took his seat as successor to Willis Vandevanter of Wyoming, who had retired in the midst of the congressional fight over the court reorganization plan.

Youth Group Begins Season by Naming Officers.

New officers of the Community Christian Youth Forum were elected at the first fall meeting last evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Those chosen were Henry Sanford, chairman; Janet Kelley, vice chairman; Ruth Husung, secretary; Willis E. Wygant, jr., treasurer, and William Layton, publicity chairman.

Discussion leader at the meeting was Dr. George F. Browne of Chefoo, China. Wygant was the worship service leader. The Forum is made up of a group of Mansfield young people from the ninth grade and Senior high school, and meets weekly at one of the city's churches.

William Russell, chief engineer at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company will be the speaker at next Sunday's meeting at 6:30 p. m. at the First Congregational church. Russell will discuss the contemporary European situation.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ELECTS BRICKER

SHELBY—C. R. Bricker was re-elected general superintendent of the Sunday School department of the First Church of Christ at the annual re-organization meeting held Sunday morning in connection with the church's annual Rally Day service.

Other officers chosen were Glen Strouse, assistant superintendent; Miss Corrine Strouse, secretary; Miss Marjorie Crowe, assistant secretary; Sterling Zehner, treasurer; Mrs. W. A. McGown, adult superintendent; Miss Mary Kirkpatrick, senior young people; Mrs. A. G. Boutwell, immediate department; Mrs. Dillard Phillips, junior department; Miss Wanda Wilkinson, primary department; Miss Lois Neal, beginner's department; Mrs. Stewart Hawk, cradle roll; Miss Grace Sweeney, pianist and Roy Kirkpatrick, chorister.

EIGHT HUNTERS DRAW FINES IN HOLMES COURT

Plead Guilty to Charges of Hunting Without Consent of Farm Owners.

MILLERSBURG — Five men from Barberton and three from Akron were fined in justice courts here Saturday for violation of the game laws. A. P. Kerns, Lonnie B. Jarvis and Linzy Justice of Akron were each fined $5 and costs by Justice Wayne Stilwell for hunting upon the D. W. Snyder farm without a written permit.

They were given 30 days to raise the amount of the fines and left their car for security. They were arrested by Game Warden John D. Farver.

Emerson Brouse and Burdette Brouse, brothers, and Carl Lindeman, Delmar Lindeman and Clyde Lindeman, brothers, all of Barberton, were each assessed fines of $10 each and costs by Justice T. D. Glasgo after they pleaded guilty to trespassing and hunting without a written permit.

Unable to pay their fines they left their guns for security until Saturday, Oct. 8, when they agreed to pay. They were arrested by Game Warden Farver and Constable W. D. Swaggard.

700 OFF WPA JOBS

BUCYRUS—Due to changes in certification of WPA project, which after Wednesday must go through the office of the county commissioners, approximately 700 WPA workers will be idle today and Tuesday. All work was suspended in the county while the change is being made, Service Director Charles I. McNeal announced.

The object of the change is to centralize office work and thereby reduce overhead administrative expenses.

BOOK CHIEF JUSTICE

BUCYRUS—Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio supreme court, who has made several personal appearance on Crawford county programs recently, will come to Crawford county again, Sunday, Oct. 9 when he will deliver the principal address at the annual homecoming at Brokensword M. E. church, north of Bucyrus.

Justice Weygandt will have as his topic "Today's Challenge to the Church." His address will be delivered during the afternoon service.

HITLER TOURS SUDETEN AREAS AMID FESTIVITY

'Heils' Greet Nazi Leader as Czechs Agree to Negotiate Hungary's Demands.

into the third of four zones his soldiers will occupy in Sudetenland, Germany looked to her next goals. A trade treaty with the United States emerged as one. Economic supremacy in the Balkans and understanding with France were others.

Presents Demands.

Hungary, demanding for the Hungarian minority in Czechoslovakia, the same treatment as the Sudetenland Germans received, presented her claims in a friendly tone. Czechoslovakia volunteered to negotiate.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, triumphantly entering Sudetenland, told its inhabitants his greeting "is at the same time a pledge."

"Over this Germany, this greater Germany, as its shield, is its sword as protection," the fuehrer declared.

He stepped unexpectedly before madly cheering crowds at Eger, in the third and most populous of the four Sudetenland zones his troops will occupy before Saturday.

Almost half of the six minutes of his speech was taken up by the crowds, cheering and heiling their "liberator."

"I greet not only you, but the entire Sudentenland, which in a few days will belong to the reich," he told them.

"Welded together in unity we must stand together. All must support each other.

'All Rejoice.'

"The whole nation rejoices with you.

"Your happiness is that of the 75,000,000 in the reich that was hitherto."

The fuehrer evidently was referring to the fact that Germany's population soon will be almost 80,000,000.

"Similarly your sufferings of the past period were also our sufferings," he exclaimed.

"In this solemn hour let us thank Almighty God that on our way thus far He has blessed us and pray that under His guidance our steps in the future may also be guided right."

Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten Nazi leader whom Hitler named Sudeten reichs commissioner for his work in behalf of annexation, accompanied the chancellor.

They crossed the former German border into Sudetenland at Wildenau, one-half mile from Henlein's home town of Asch, at 11:16 a. m. (5:16 a. m. EST).

A symbolical ceremony was held.

The Germans customs barrier was raised slowly and the band struck up Deutschland Uber Alles and the Horst Wessel song.

Hitler's automobile was followed by 12 motorcars with army officers and numerous cars of storm troopers. Twelve motorcycle soldiers also were in the parade.

Hitler came into Sudetenland several hours after his army which formally annexed the Asch-Eger region, heart of the territory, at 8:05 a. m. (2:05) a. m. EST.)

Take Over Territory.

About 2,000 German troops commanded by General Walter Von Reichenau had rolled across the frontier at Wildenau, in camouflaged trucks, for the early occupation of the Asch-Tger region, third of the zones being taken over progressively by the Nazis.

This column met a second of about 6,000 men in Asch.

Hitler's troops at once took over the street policing from Sudeten party volunteers.

As the German troops marched in, the Sudeten free corps, which Henlein organized to combat Czechslovaks, marched out wearing civilian clothes, steel helmets and swastika arm bands.

Goering's men were the best equipped of the army units, and the most spirited. They came in singing in huge army trucks. The other units used commandeered commercial trucks.

The troops were enroute all night. Many slept until they reached Asch, where the cheering throungs awakened them.

Hitler's train arrived from Berlin at Hof, Bavaria, this morning. General Von Reichenau, as commander of army group No. 4, reported to him there.

Hitler, the general, Commander Colonel Rommel of the Chancellor's army headquarters, and Fritz Waechtler, Nazi district leader for etstern Bavaria, held a brief conference aboard the train.

Czechs Prepare for New Economic Life.

PRAGUE—(U.P.)—Czechoslovakia today tried to lay the foundations of a new economic life inside the narrower borders of this once-prosperous realm which has yielded to German and Polish territorial claims and agreed to negotiate the demands of Hungary.

With German and Polish military occupation of frontier regions proceeding quietly, the supreme economic council originally set up by Premier Jan Syrovy as a defense organization was considering the nation's new industrial and financial status.

Probably not until the end of the year will the borders of the new state—which the premier declared "has the firm will to live"—be determined exactly.

The precise German and Polish frontiers are to be fixed by plebiscites. Prague is ready to start negotiating with Hungary on the dispute over the 800,000 Hungarian minority.

Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta answered a new Hungarian note which asserted the right of self-determination for the Hungarian minority with the suggestion that a Czechoslovak-Hungarian commission be named to settle the dispute. Hungary was said to have been agreeable and to have asked that negotiations start at once.

Hitler to Start Demobilizing Army.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—Adolf Hitler intends to start demobilizing Germany's army of 1,500,000 men immediately after completing the occupation of Sudetenland Oct. 10, it was understood today.

It was forecast that by the end of next week the "maneuvers," which first called Europe's attention to the critical nature of the Czechoslovak minority problem, would be officially terminated.

That would be the signal for sending home the reserves which swelled the German army from its normal figure of perhaps 660,000 men to 1,500,000.

It was understood that Hitler would be prepared to start demobilization before Oct. 10 but that for purely technical reasons army heady advised against "terminating the maneuvers" while the Sudeten occupation was proceeding.

After his triumphal tour of Sudetenland, Hitler was expected to start a semi-vacation, lasting possibly as long as two or three months, during which he would spend most of his time at Berchtesgaden, in the Bavarian mountains, relaxing from the strain of the last few weeks, which taxed him heavily.

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

By HELEN WELSHIMER

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER 9

Judy clung to the telephone receiver, in the drug store booth, from which she had called Marjorie Barton.

Craig's eager, frantic voice was urging her to speak: "Judy, are you there? Judy, it's Craig. Where are you? I've been hunting for . . . Judy—Judy . . ."

So she had not dreamed him. She had not imagined that life of which he was so much a part. It had been true. Very quietly she replaced the receiver. That was over. He must not find her. He should never see her in this new, hard-working world. He had chosen a girl named Mary.

She could not contact Marjorie again. It was not safe, for Craig and others would be around. She sat for a moment, loathe to leave because a voice she loved so much had filled that small booth just a minute before.

Someone tapped impatiently on the glass of the door. A man with a nickel wanted to make a call. She opened the door.

"Say, you look as though you saw a ghost," he greeted her. "Feeling all right, lady!"

"Oh, I'm fine—I'm splendid!" she answered.

"Better get a cup of coffee. Got another nickel?"

Judy held out her hand, where the four coins she hadn't needed for the telephone call reposed. She had thought, when she changed the quarter, that perhaps she and Marjorie would have so much to say to each other—

She ordered the coffee. The man's kindness reminded her of the philosophy which Ronald Birrell had mentioned. He had told her she should branch out, and discover how the less fortunate lived. They were kind. They shared. Where had Ronald learned so much? Sipping the hot beverage, she thought of the cabin in the Tennessee mountains from which he had come. She fell asleep, thinking of it still.

* * *

The sun shone with a glorious challenge the next morning. There was a rhythm of laughter under the city's rumble. She had heard Craig's voice! Heard it, and turned it off, as though he were someone on a radio who could be banished with a click of a button. Yet, because of that ethereal contact, she was happier.

In her happier mood, she showed the sketch that she had made to one of the models.

"It's good," the girl commented. "Listen, sister, I've been here a long time. I know the boss well. Let me slip it to him. I can put it over. Got any more?"

"Why, yes." Maybe this was better. Yet Judy preferred going directly to the manufacturer. But this model, Rita Cleeburg, was trying to be kind. Judy might offend her if she refused her help. She handed her half a dozen sketches.

"Keep mum about it, won't you?" Rita said. "If word gets out you're sketching, every other girl will pick up a pencil and the boss will be so provoked he'll pitch 'em all into the wastepaper basket."

Judy heard nothing about her sketches for a week. Then she was asked to appear in a new model one day. Usually, as new dresses were made, they were fitted on the girl who would wear them. She had worn frocks that were ready, that first day, merely because the former model had left.

Someone brought the costume to her. She glanced at it in surprise. It was the gray suit that she had designed, the first sketch that she had given Rita. Then her eyes flashed with delight. So the company had surprised her! It had accepted the sketch, made the suit, and asked her to pose in it. She must thank them all, at once.

"Buyer from Scranton waiting. Better hurry," someone called.

There were other clothes to model when the gray suit had been seen and an order placed, so it was an hour before Judy sought Rita.

"I don't know how to thank you," she said simply. "I'm so glad they liked my suit."

"Your suit?" the girl asked coldly.

"The gray one—designed from the sketch I gave you."

"You're imagining things. That was a design of the regular staff man. He threw away your sketches. Better stick to modeling, kid."

Judy did not hesitate. She knocked at the door of the president of the company, eyes flashing, hands plunged into the deep gingham pockets in her smock.

"It's about the sketch which I submitted to you," she began. "Rita asked to bring it to you personally. Now the staff artist claims credit. Could he—did he have the same idea that I had?"

"You made some sketches?" the man asked.

Judy told him the story briefly. "That dress was made from Blobber's own idea—he does our work," the employer said, rather wearily.

"I see—but how could two people have the same ideas?"

"You run along and talk to Blobber.

The designer and the model named Rita greeted her coldly. The whole situation was quite apparent. Rita and Blobber were in love. Blobber had been falling down. Rita had seized on Judy's ideas as a way to help the man and also establish herself more firmly in his favor.

Judy went back to the president, but they followed her.

The man shook his head. "Why should you tell me how to run my business? How do I know they were your sketches? I know only what I saw. Blobber made a good-looking design and I took it. He has some more . . ."

"Mine," said Judy briefly.

"Maybe if you don't like our ways you'd better leave," suggested the employer.

"Maybe I had." Judy agreed. "May I have my sketches, please?"

"No good. I tore them up," Rita explained.

"Wait. She did give you some sketches?" asked her employer.

"I'll get them. I have the pieces."

They were not Judy's sketches that the girl brought back. They were some of her own, poorly conceived and drawn. The employer shook his head.

"Now who would buy a dress like that, Miss Rogers? You have big ideas, and no sense."

"You'll pay for this," Judy answered. For the first time she wanted to tell them who she was. She wanted to frighten them with her name. Then she realized that her name meant nothing now. Its financial backing was gone. To these people she had been any girl named Judy Rogers, not the socially important heiress.

"Better stay with us, Miss Rogers," the kindly tones of the manufacturer suggested. "You'll learn. Maybe you didn't really mean to say those ideas were yours. Blobber and Rita can teach you a lot."

"They are mine,' Judy insisted. "I have carbons at home to prove it."

"Go get them," the man told her.

Frantically Judy searched through her desk, the dressing table, her pocketbook. The papers were not there. The maid had been in to clean the room, and the wastepaper basket was empty. For that matter, she might have thrown the drawings away on any other evening. Her job was gone unless she could prove her claims. Otherwise the manufacturer would never believe her again, and she would be let out soon.

In all the city there was no one to help her. No one. Craig? Oh, yes, he would do his best, but he knew nothing of this world she had been combating. Marjorie? She knew less. Her aunt? She would tell the family about everything.

The family lawyers—in the old days every problem had been taken directly to them, left in their faithful, capable hands, and forgotten. But now . . .

Ronald Birrell had fought his way up. Maybe he could help her. He would know that she had not given up. That she was struggling. As if it mattered what he thought!

If only, only there were Craig! If this were last summer, he would have told her to forget it all and marry him.

Half an hour later she faced Miss Martin in the Heaton offices.

"Mr. Birrell," Judy said firmly.

A familiar voice interrupted, deep and humorous. "I've been expecting you," it said.

PROOF

THAT ELECTRIC COOKERY IS ECONOMICAL!

Here is actual proof that Electric Cookery is fast, effortless and ECONOMICAL. Thursday and Friday of last week we held a demonstration which hundreds of women attended. Mrs. Irene Oberlin and Miss Alice Turner, OPS and Westinghouse Home Economists prepared three full meals for four people . . . not for just one day but for three days! And the actual cost by a sealed meter was only 22.2c.

The many housewives that viewed this demonstration marveled at the ease and effortless labor involved in preparing these three-day meals. The menus for these meals called for baking, roasting, frying and stewing, together with the preparation of coffee and other surface cooking. So you see it cost but a fraction over 2c to prepare each meal! You, too, can enjoy the many pleasures of electric cookery, for it is fast, effortless, economical and your meals will taste twice as good!

Why only $30-every-Thursday—with seven days in the week, $35 would make it come out even.

It is noted that John Roosevelt has already won promotion in his department store job—which should encourage any president's son who is trying to make good.

Again comes the season when linotype operators and proofreaders must exercise unusual care as to where the space band drops when the political orator makes glowing reference to "the masses."

Can Hitler Be Trusted?

THE world may take what comfort it can in Hitler's promise that the Sudetenland is "the last territorial change he will seek in Europe." It would be easy to take that pledge too optimistically.

The first question arising in the mind of a realistic bystander is whether Hitler really meant it. In his philosophy and method, promises are not regarded as very important.

But he may keep the promise literally, and yet undertake some things that honest and literal-minded people haven't thought of. Hitler says in his book that he wants the Ukraine. Does he regard Russia as in Europe? Probably he doesn't. It is more common abroad than here in America to regard Russia as an Asiatic power, and the general term "Europe" is often used merely for what we call "western Europe."

His Fascist allies want territory, too, and he will help them get it.

Can there be any satisfying of an energetic and ambitious nation led by such a ruthless dictator? Hitler himself must go on and on, to keep his people contented, to make good the vast promises he has made and the vistas of world power he has opened up to them, and to satisfy the greed of his allies.

Fifty Termed the 'Crisis Age.'

ACCORDING to a British psychologist, 50 is the "crisis age" of a man—because the average man, at this age suddenly finds it's too late to turn back and start over, while up to that time he had usually toyed with an idea that he could make a change at any moment.

Only those who have passed 50 will be competent to judge what is meant by this assertion and its implications.

From 45 to 50 has long been recognized as a physiological and moral "danger age" for males, but that the half century mark is also a "crisis age" has not been so generally taken into account.

That this point may be a "giving up age" is somehow indicated by the fact that 50 is made the starting time for the new $30-every-Thursday pension scheme, which, like the Townsend $200 a month pension "plan," started in California and is now percolating through the country.

It cannot be doubted that much which comes after 50 hinges on education acquired, habits formed and work done before that time in life.

Fifty is an age at which sometimes tolerant Nature is likely to start inflicting rather heavy penalties on those who violated her laws and thought they were "getting away with it."

It is also an age at which dumbness is no longer excused as youthful blundering.

And by 50, ordinarily, a man is fairly well advanced in the strength and weaknesses that determine between success and failure.

If he hasn't done much of anything worth while before he is 50 the betting odds are against later valuable accomplishments. If his record before 50 is creditable he will likely do even better afterward.

As was once said by someone, the elements entering into development of a sow's ear are not such as to lend themselves readily to transformation into a silk purse.

Negotiated Boundaries.

THE governments of Panama and Costa Rica have just ended a boundary dispute of 400 years standing. Panama inherited the problem from Colombia when it obtained independence in 1903. Under the present agreement Costa Rica cedes to Panama a strip of territory along the Atlantic coast while Panama cedes to Costa Rica a similar area in the interior.

The countries involved in this settlement are small and unimportant, perhaps, in a scheme of things that considers only the "great powers." Boundary disputes, however, and international problems of all sorts, are our daily fare. It is pleasant, indeed, to read of one that has been settled amicably, by mutual agreement, without threat of force on either side. May this Central American example some day spread far through the world!

Why Plant Trees?

THERE are three good reasons why farmers should plant trees on their farms, particularly on their idle acres, says the chief of the Illinois state forestry division. Two of these reasons are familiar. They are the protection of watersheds and the prevention of soil erosion. The third reason is that trees are a good business proposition for the farmer. Illinois, says this official, is a heavy consumer of wood products and a possible market for more wood raised locally. The argument holds true for other states.

There are other reasons, of course, such as the human need for the beauty, the shade and the fruit of trees, the last including nuts as well as fruits. Another is the provision for bird life, so essential to man in his constant warfare against insect pests.

Canebrake Technology.

THERE is talk of a revolution in the handling of Louisiana sugar cane, reminding people of the threatened revolution in cotton-picking. The big job in the sugar industry is to cut the cane. So far, for a century and a half, it has been harvested by hand with knives somewhat like corn-cutters. Now a harvesting machine has been produced which is said to do the work of fifty men. It could be operated by one or two.

Which brings up the same old problem of "technological unemployment." What would the displaced harvest hands do?

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Foreign correspondents have done a turn in Russia always get a laugh when they see that an announcement from Moscow has been released at 2 a. m., or 4 a. m., or some other unorthodox hour.

It all dates back to the fact that Tchitcherin, Russian foreign minister in the anxious "twenties" suffered from insomnia. He couldn't sleep nights so he used to keep the whole foreign office staff on duty from dusk to dawn.

At any hour of the night an important pronouncement might come from the foreign office so it kept the correspondents on almost a 24-hour basis.

But the worst part of it is, the foreign office got in the habit of working at night and hasn't stopped yet. Even during the past week it issued a statement at 4:50 a. m., which is an unconscionable hour in anybody's language.

The Navy Never Sleeps.

IN WASHINGTON midnight pronouncements are extremely rare except in instances arising from emergency situations, such as air or sea disasters. Even so, the navy keeps an officer and staff on duty throughout the night. The sun that never sets on the British Empire also never sets on the U. S. Navy. There is no telling when something might break in an odd quarter of the globe that might compel a navy commander to get in touch with authorities in Washington in a hurry.

During the present Czechoslovak crisis the state department hasn't slept any more than the navy watch. We passed there as late as 4 a. m. of a recent morning (gad, sir, don't tell Polly) and there were lights burning on the second and third floors, where Secretary Hull and his principal assistants are officed. Hull's office wasn't lighted, however.

A guide aboard the Conte di Savoia, one of Italy's premier transatlantic liners, told us that Jews traveling third class must eat by themselves in a corner partitioned off from the third class dining room. He suggested it was because they eat special kinds of food.

* * *

We have heard Der Fuehrer over the radio several times and can't kick at his voice. Our German is strictly guidebook—"Wir kommen gerade von Washington"—("we have just come from Washington"), but of course we haven't heard him say that. Others say his diction is fair enough. Anyway, we enjoy hearing him as much as hearing Senator Tydings, the conservative, or John L. Lewis, liberal.

Trees, Horses, Shoestrings.

THINGS not worth remembering: To speed up traffic five minutes on busy downtown K street, a dozen trees more than 60 years in the growing were uprooted...Police will arrest you if you park in front of Washington's two or three horse-watering troughs, even if a horse hasn't drunk there in months....A blind man whose shoe-string-and-pencil beat is on fashionable Sixteenth street goes home nights in a taxi—and how the dimity else would he go home?

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Oct. 3, 1933.

An explosion of a gas tank near Willard killed Emory Dukish, 19, farm hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Rex were called to McConnellsville by the death of his father.

Karl F. Schauwecker, Bowman street, returned to the Carnegie Institute of Technology as a senior.

Members of the Federation of Women amended constitution to reduce annual dues.

Deputy Sheriff C. A. Markley resumed his duties after several days' illness.

Funny-Money Plans Offer Variety

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—When Dr. Francis E. Townsend was a luncheon guest of the National Press Club in Washington at the time his old age pension plan was being much discussed, the doctor, after consuming his share of the provender served, made a speech dealing, of course, with the promised benefits of his proposed scheme.

His talk concluded, as the luncheoneers were preparing to depart, a group of newspapermen gathered about the old Californian and began questioning him, seeking further enlightenment.

"Doctor," said one of the boys, "your program would be very inflationary, wouldn't it?"

The chap spoke hopefully. It was evident, from his tone, that he favored inflation. He is, in fact, the correspondent for a string of dailies in some farm states, where there is considerable inflationary sentiment.

The doctor welcomed the interrogation. "Certainly," he answered. "It's extremely inflationary."

"But Doctor," interrupted another bird, representing several papers in industrial districts, "inflation is terrible on workingmen. It means that prices sky-hoot, while wages, at least for a long while, stand still."

"True," agreed the doctor, "but you must remember that my system will be deflationary, too."

* * *

ALL THINGS TO ALL

From that moment forward I have suspected that the "Townsend plan" never was fully thought out.

Simultaneously inflationary and deflationary!

Black and white at the same instant!

And the thing's own inventor was the authority for this piece of alleged information!

I believe the doctor to be a thoroughly well-meaning septuagenarian. Members of the congressional committee which investigated him seem to me to have bullied him unnecessarily. He may have had organizers whose ethics were questionable, but the only criticism I have of the doctor is that, in his days as a medical practictioner, I wouldn't have liked to have had him diagnose my case. I'd have feared that he'd confuse under-nourishment with excess, or some such thing.

But what's peculiar is that the "Townsend plan" appears not to have blown up at all.

On the contrary, apostles of schemes as weird as the "doctor's" are running for the senate and house of representatives right now. Senator McAdoo of California was licked for renomination by the exponent of one of these formulas.

It isn't that old folks shouldn't be pensioned. I'm old myself and ought to be pensioned, but I wouldn't want to be pensioned in what we're learning to call "funny money."

* * *

HOW DO THEY DO IT?

It isn't the pensioning proposition that's ridiculous. Oldsters have got to be taken care of somehow until they die.

What's ridiculous is embodied in the various plans for raising the dough.

Maybee Dr. Townsend hit on it; make it inflationary and deflationary, both at once.

Only I don't see how it can be done.

Anyway, it will be a subject for red-hot discussion in the 76th Congress.

Timely Editorial

Getting the Game Hogs.

The crackdown on game law violators which began as soon as the official squirrel season opened is to be commended.

It may look to some men that killing an extra squirrel or two is not such a tremendous offense. But the fact remains that it is useless to have a conservation department, folly to set up game and season limits, and foolishness on the part of law-abiding sportsmen to show too much leniency to those who will not obey the law. To do so would lead to limitless slaughter on the part of the game "hogs."

Furthermore, ample warnings have been given. It is always possible for every hunter to know the provisions of the law. And because of greed to get game these disregarders not only break the civil law but also twist awry the rules of courtesy and good sportsmanship.

Fortunately, all the way around, game violators are in a meager minority among hunters.—Ohio State Journal.

How Nervous Activity Functions.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE often said that the most marvelous part of the human body is the cerebellum. The cerebellum makes us do ten thousand and one little things with precision and assurance and without giving them a thought, from picking up a coffee cup by the handle to running for a street car.

But like all other parts of the higher central nervous system, it depends on the humble processes of digestion, respiration and metabolism, as well as a great many other things that are not chemical.

Man's real function in the world must be to use his brain, but heaven knows that function goes about as wrong as any of the others we mentioned in the earlier articles this week. Men can live and animals can live without very much of their upper brain. The decorticate animal walks, sits, crouches and rights itself in fairly normal manner. In the great American crowbar case, where a crowbar was accidentally driven through a man's left frontal cerebral hemisphere, which is supposed to be the center of thought, the victim slept, walked and conversed with his family all right for many years afterward.

So these high centers are not divorced from the rest of the body. In a way it can function without them. At least it is able to take care of its creature needs without them. And they cannot function without the body's chemical help or without the impressions that come in from the outside world.

The functioning even of the logical centers of Kant and Newton and Hume was conditioned on what their eyes brought to them, and their ears and the sensation from their skin. Aloof and magnificent as their conceptions were, they were still born in the phenomena of the earth in which their creators lived.

In studying such a thing as Milton's blindness, it has been pointed out that he was, in youth, probably an albino, because like an albino who had no pigment in his retina, he saw everything as a blaze of light. His poetry is filled with images of light, of a glorious heaven ablaze, probably because he saw this world in that way. Thus each, of us is bound in our thoughts and our opinions by the experiences of our lives.

The case of Laura Bridgeman shows how difficult it is to awaken the brain if an important sensory receptor is missing. At the age of four, after an attack of sickness, she was deprived of the senses of sight and hearing; taste and smell were very much blunted. There remained only touch as a way of arousing her thought processes.

She had a devoted teacher, but years of work were required before even a glimmer of a response occurred. Everything we understand through the senses of sight and sound had to be reinvented for her in terms of touch. That success was finally achieved is due to the genius of her teacher. You may read all about it in Dickens' "American Notes."

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

To Get the Mitten.

Boy meets girl. Boy asks girl to marry him. Girl says no. Boy has gotten the mitten.

We have the phrase from an old French custom, probably by way of Canada, in the practise of which the lady in the case dismissed her lover by presenting him with real mitaines.

Inflexible was the rule governing such a situation.

The giving of this bit of wearing apparel terminated the relationship between unsuccessful wooer and wooed, annihilated the jilted suitor and forebade him to demand an explanation.

The ceremony is dead: but the idiom was much too lusty not to linger on.

Pointed Paragraphs

The only sure thing about life is the end thereof.

It sometimes happens that a man who is short of brains is long on tongue.

Don't think that because men ask you for advice they really want it.

Young America Says—

Domestic Help Deserves Better Break.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MODERN YOUTH noting things it has never noticed before—. Asking f'rinstance, whether "Domestic Help" gets a fair and friendly deal. . . .

Listen while Beatrice Schandt of Muskegon, Mich., puts that wonder into plain words—

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"How would you like to be a 'domestic helper'?

"There is the question which faces thousands of American girls—a question embellished with every inducement of easy living, private progress and fair play.

"But when you come right down to it, what does it amount to? Bunk—and nothing else but—all these wonderful promises fade the minute you take the job. Then you're up against plain drudgery from morning 'till night. Year in and year out there's always the same routine—up at 7, get breakfast, send the kids off to school after directing their table manners, wash and iron, clean the house. Twelve hours of that then a brief gap of sleep—and it all begins all over again.

"And all the time you must keep a cheery smile on your face, show a respectful manner. Who cares if you work all day and half the night? What have you to kick about—you are getting $10 a week with one afternoon and an evening off and perhaps a bit of Sunday? What more could you ask?

"Yes, perhaps you made dates for yourself which you must break. Perhaps you've started friendships, which you must drop. What's that to your mistress—AS LONG AS SHE HAS HER FUN?

"Why should it matter to her if your plan of life is being slowly but surely destroyed . . . if your hopes for a home and a family of your own some day are being wiped out? SO LONG AS HER HOME RUNS SMOOTHLY AND HER DREAMS COME TRUE, SHE DOESN'T CARE A HOOT ABOUT YOURS.

"Our country a democracy? Don't make me laugh! The 'American woman domestic' is as much a slave as any shackled member of the chain gang. And the smug complacency, the ruthless selfishness, the calloused indifference of the American housewife is to blame.

"You complain because you 'can't get domestic help.' Treat girls as human beings—'do unto them as you would expect them to do unto you' and you'll be surprised!"

Beatrice Schandt—age 19.
Muskegon, Mich.
($10 Prize Winner)

* * *

THEN another working girl viewpoint of the current scene. Is the American housewife shopper ruthlessly selfish . . . indifferent to her working sisters or her laboring brothers' weariness and need?

Says (Miss) Ruth Crymes of Atlanta, Ga.—"SHE IS!"

"Dear Elsie—

"There is just one thing that makes me see red and that is these housewives who wait until noon to do their shopping, then stand in the middle of the aisle, comparing merchandise and gossiping.

"CAN'T THEY REALIZE THAT THE OFFICE GIRL HAS ONLY ONE SHORT HOUR TO DO HER LUNCH AND SHOP . . . AND THAT THEY ARE CONSUMING THAT HOUR BY THEIR IDLE FOOLISHNESS?

"I'd like to make the average housewife exchange places with the working girl for just one day . . . let her run up to town, swallow her lunch whole, scramble around trying to shop, and then, with nothing accomplished, race back to work!

"I believe all girls should work at least one year before marrying. Then, perhaps, they'd acquire a little knowledge of the value of time—a little sympathy for the other woman's necessity.

"There are just two ways to solve this problem—either eliminate all unemployed women from the store during luncheon hour or force them to take second place to their unfortunate sisters who must race with Father Time in those sixty minutes."

THEN here's another defense—
—neither for the WORKER nor the UNEMPLOYED but for

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It seems ironic that the blind beggars on the streets of Manhattan should wear police licenses advertising the New York World's Fair . . . These licenses advertise exhibits and spectacles that they, the blind, will never see. . . .

Twelve years ago Ernie Fiorito saw an execution, and the impression was so profound that now, more than a decade later, he has composed a suite in which are recorded a condemned man's last thoughts. . . . It's a sort of Gloomy Sunday idea.

MY FAVORITE radio and concert singer is Margaret Speaks, who is quite a domestic person on week-ends spent at her Westchester home. It seems there are a number of apple trees on the place and Margaret has been making jelly. . . . She's worried sick because, at last reports, it hadn't jelled. . . .

Our nature item for the week concerns two pink snakes, long as a drunkard's dream, caught by Dave Denis, young twin son of Armand Denis, the Belgian explorer. Denis is also producer of an amazing motion picture, "Dark Rapture" which for the first time gives an authentic picture of life in the Belgian Congo.

When young Denis told his father he saw pink snakes in the garden of their Connecticut home Denis pere gazed dubiously at his son. . . . But the boy was right. . . . "Carphophis amoena amoena," mumbled the curator of the American Museum of Natural History, which means "pink snake, the sober variety." Now they're stuffed (the snakes are, I mean) and are on display where you may see.

This is asking for trouble, but during the last five years the most interesting performances on Broadway, at least in my book, have been (1) the late Osgood Perkins in "Goodbye Again"; (2) Alfred Lunt in "Point Valaine"; (3) Judith Anderson and Helen Menken in "The Old Maid"; (4) Henry Hull in "Tobacco Road"; (5) Ruth Gordon in "Ethan Frome"; (6) Leslie Howard in "Hamlet;" (7) Katharine Cornell in "Flowers of the Forest"; (8) Conway Tearle in "Dinner at Eight;" (9) Helen Hayes in "Mary of Scotland," and (10) Wallace Ford in "Of Mice and Men."

Some of the plays listed here were failures, one of them was a Pulitzer prize winner, others enjoyed long and successful runs on Broadway.

CONSIDERING her stage, screen and radio careers, Mae West has had a lot of success as well as a few bumpy hurdles to get over. But precedent has never meant much to her. She breaks it and sets it with equal nonchalance.

Among other things that Mae has done is to flout the old axiom that "The show must go on." When word was brought to her that her mother was dead, Mae was playing in a very successful thriller, "Diamond Lil." Did she shake the tears from her eye, slap on some lipstick and go on? She did not. She closed the show for four nights.

Among men, Mae has a preference for the "big, rough, tough and ugly" type. She has never admitted being married, old court records to the contrary notwithstanding. But she will tell you this, it'll be a cold day in August before she marches to the altar again.

A Farmer's Diary

A Rural Funeral.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY FRIEND died as he had lived, quietly, tranquilly. Often had I visited him, in time of failing health, and we would slowly walk out over his favorite hills, and view the country for miles around. Here, not many months ago, we stood and watched in silence as the sun went down.

When it had sunk from sight, he walked close to me and bravely said, "I like to watch the sunset...it seems so much a part of me. I only hope when this spark of life is gone, my departure will be as peaceful and serene. The earth is full of lovely things. I find it a wonderful place to live.... I don't like to leave it so soon. It is no vale of tears, but a paradise..." He shook with emotion as we stood there in the evening calm.

I thought of One who loved the lilies of the field; of Lanier who felt the greatness of God as he watched the marsh hen's certain, upward flight; of Keats, whose short life left behind so much of beauty.

Today we bore him — five other friends and I — to the little wayside church, in through the rough, weather-beaten doors, up the aisle, and placed the casket tenderly before the altar. His sons and daughters followed, with their families. His wife had gone before.

There was no organ or piano. A man from the congregation got up and started that lovely hymn, "Lead Kindly Light." It was sung with feeling. The minister preached a typical funeral sermon. I wondered, meekly, what he would have said, had the subject been a character of disrepute.

The sermon over, the pastor gave the invitation to view the body. Everyone responded. The relatives stood, weeping, about the casket, reluctant to leave...

We bore our precious burden to the open grave beside the church, and lowered it carefully to its final resting place.

The sun went down as we were going home. The autumn leaves will fittingly soften and obliterate the fresh-made mound.

Judge Hears Car Lacked Brakes, That Body Dropped To Ground.

DETROIT—(AP)—Police arrested Mike Smith, 65, and told Traffic Judge Thomas F. Maher they had these facts to back up the charge of reckless driving,

Smith's car was a 1927 model and lacked brakes.

One rear wheel was larger than the other three wheels.

The body had slipped on the frame and was almost scraping the ground at the rear.

Judge Maher gave Smith 30 days to get the car overhauled.

EXPLORER REPORTS FINDING MAN-EATING CANNIBAL TRIBE

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Despite efforts of the Dutch government to stamp out the practice, cannibals still eat human flesh in remote regions of New Guinea, according to S. Dillon Ripley, youthful explorer for the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences.

But man-eating is confined now strictly to native subjects, Dillon explained, partly because of Dutch objection to the parboiling or roasting of white men. Further, Dillon added, cannibalism usually is resorted to only as a punishment for a crime within the tribe, with the offender becoming the main course of a suddenly-called feast.

"Yes, I lived with cannibals—man eaters," Dillon said upon his recent return after 19-months searching for rare birds in New Guinea. "Dutch Guinea is the home of the cannibal and a man and a pig have the same value there as far as red meat goes."

If meat is plentiful a crime such as stealing is likely to receive lighter punishment among the cannibals, Dillon declared, but if, on this principally agricultural island, game is scarce, an offender is liable to find himself invited to a tribal dance.

He dances with the rest of the tribe unaware that he is the object of special attention until a wreath suddenly is dropped over his head. Then he is stabbed. And according to Dillon, the criminal either is roasted whole, tied to a stick, or his body is cut up raw and divided among the men. Women do not eat the "food."

Crosses Country To Prove Tax Charge an Error

HOUSTON, Tex.—(INS)—E. D. Durfee's opinon of his home town has slipped several notches since the commissioners' court "built" a house on his property here and then removed it—after he came the 1,800 miles from New York, his present residence, to check up on the matter.

Durfee received a tax-raise notice on property he owns near South Houston. It listed a $2,000 home.

Wondering if someone had put up a house as a present to him, Durfee took a train to Houston. The acreage was still bare.

Clerks in the tax assessor-collector's office took steps to straighten out the matter, while Durfee in high dudgen, took the next train for New York.

CLOSE FACTORY

Fish Swept In By Flood Causes Shut Down.

BILLERICA, Mass. —(INS)— A factory was closed for two days here after live fish were swept into the plant canal from the flooded Concord River, clogging valves, pumps and machinery. More than 200 barrels of fish were removed from the mill and returned to the stream.

HANGARS URGED UNDER GROUND

Retired Army Officer Offers New Plan for Protection in Time of Invasion.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Capt. Corley P. McDarment, retired air corps officer and former commandant of the Pittsburgh air corps area, proposes the construction of underground hangars to protect plane concentrations from air attacks.

Every major power except the United States has adopted the underground hangar plan which he first proposed while on duty in Pittsburgh, he said in an interview.

"I strongly advocate this type of protection, especially on the West Coast where there are large concentrations of planes, and in the Pittsburgh area," he said.

"The wars in Spain and China have shown us planes concentrated on the ground or in hangars are constantly exposed to bombings. There is nothing more helpless than a grounded plane.

"These hangars would be very expensive, except in hilly areas where the hangars could be cut into the side of a hill, but the development of aircraft carriers to bring enemy aircraft close to our shores and the constantly increasing range of modern fighting planes makes such measures almost imperative," he said.

Army officials said that the cost of underground hangars would be extremely high. Instead, they said, the army is developing more airfields at strategic points about the country.

UNIQUE ANGLER

Line Baited With Corn Brings 'Fisherman' Chickens.

WAUKEGAN, Ill.—(AP)—Leonard Riley knows now how 105 of his pullets disappeared mysteriously during the past five weeks.

A youth loitering near the chicken yard fence was frightened away by Riley's neighbor.

The intruder left behind a 16-foot pole, a 22-foot line, and a hook baited with a kernel of corn.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Lutz Firm Has Complete Stock of Building Materials

Starting with a small stock of lumber more than 30 years ago, the Lutz Lumber company of Lexington is now one of the largest lumber and building accessory dealers in this section of the state.

Over 35,000 square feet of storage space, all under roof, houses this stock.

Shortly after the turn of the century, William Lutz founded this concern which is now known as the Lutz Lumber company. At the present time Ralph C. Lutz and Floyd Lutz operate the business. Both have been connected with the firm for the past 17 years and are widely known in north central Ohio in the lumber and building industry.

The Lutz company has a complete stock of lumber, roofing, insulation material, paint, doors, windows, interior trim and many other items that are usually found in a retail lumber yard.

Modern mill facilities are available at the yard with practically all new equipment.

As the result of its growth in recent years, the company, in addition to the original building and land, now occupies the building formerly used by the Smith Gas Engineering company.

ELECTRIC IRON TODAY COMBINES EASE, SPEED AND CONVENIENCE

One day not long ago a statistically inclined engineer figured that a homemaker, when doing the family ironing on laundry day, actually needlessly lifted the weight equivalent to that of an elephant because of the excess weight in the old-fashioned iron. It was necessary, with these obsolete irons, to have excess weight because for ironing purposes intense heat is required and until the development of the high wattage electrical element no adequate heat source was known.

The modern electric iron of today, like most other tools of modern civilization, is the result of the accumulative efforts of thousands of unknown men beginning with the dawn of history.

New cloths, metals, methods of transforming and controlling heat have all had important parts in the development of the electric iron, with the result that these available today are lightweight, automatic electric irons that meet all the exacting demands of the modern housewife.

Today's irons have ease, speed, and convenience never before heard of. They are streamlined in design, with cool, fatigue-proof handles and adjustable heat control that gives just the right temperature for every fabric.

The early electric iron as viewed from the standards of today was a crude affair. The modern high temperature resistance wire was not then available, neither was the accurate thermostat control that automatically shuts the current "on" and "off" to maintain the correct degree.

For these deficiences the irons were made quite heavy so that when the homemaker wasn't ironing the heat generated would be stored. Then when the iron was used the benefit of the stored heat could be utilized to carry her over those periods when more heat was required than the element alone could provide.

Besides providing enough heat for heavy ironing other improvements had to be made in the design of electric irons. It was realized that the user of the iron could only judge the proper temperature for ironing by tapping a moistened finger against the ironing surface and noting the "feel" and the degree of loudness of the resultant sputtering from contact with the heat. Westinghouse, in their irons, have a finger control on the iron under the handle upon which are marked the names of the various fabrics including linen, silk, rayon, wool and cotton. This control, after being adjusted, assumes the exact correct temperature constantly.

Constant study and research conducted by the manufacturers to find ways and means of continually improving this appliance is being carried on. As new knowledge is obtained, new materials developed, improvement of ironing will be the result.

COUNCIL ARRANGES SERIES OF PROGRAMS

"Who Is Rearing Our Children?" General Theme for Year; Physicians, Community Leaders Will Address Group.

PROBABLY one of the largest and most inclusive organizations in the city is the Mansfield Council of Parent-Teacher associations which has planned a program for this year based on the general theme, "Who Is Rearing Our Children?" Programs announcing the topics for the year were distributed recently.

The group, which includes all the Parent-Teacher associations in the city, will meet once each month at the Chamber of Commerce, with two exceptions.

In October Harker Enlow will address the group on First Aid, and Rev. D. N. Roller will speak on the general theme.

In November the council will meet at the Woodland school to hear Dr. F. J. Heringhaus talk on "Tuberculosis" and George H. Smith tell about the Christmas seals. Miss Margaret Draper, Mrs. K. E. Buhr and Mrs. J. C. Klinger will also appear on the program, and Mrs. C. H. Bell will be in charge of the social hour

Skipping the month of December, the council will again convene in January to hear Dr. R. C. Wise, Miss Marian Snyder, Miss Leona Snyder and Mrs. Ward Ingraham speak on "Special Education."

For the Founder's day program at Bushnell school Dr. D. A. Weir will talk on "Immunization." In March oral hygiene will be discussed by Dr. C. R. Hein and "The Future of the Youth Forum" is the topic selected by Dr. W. E. Wygant.

Dr. Mabel Emery Huston and O. E. Hill will appear on the April program, and the final session in May will be conducted by Miss Margaret West and R. B. Chapman.

Officers of the council include Mrs. F. David Boals, president; Mrs. G. W. Harmony, vice president; Mrs. N. J. Scanlon, recording secretary; W. A. Freeman, corresponding secretary, and L. R. McGinty, treasurer.

Committee heads are Mrs. J. B. Weigel, Mrs. Milo W. Hiber, S. H. Glessner, Mrs. G. C. Young, Dr. Huston, Mrs. D. O. Meese, Mrs. I. W. Basinger, Mrs. Russell Moore, Mrs Buhr, Mrs. Klinger, Mrs. Bell, G. L. Robinson, Miss Hazel Manner, Mrs. Carl McCullough, Miss Ruth Dunham, Mr. McGinty, Mrs. Grace Pocock, Mrs. Fred Patterson, Mrs. C. A. McClure, Mrs. R. M. Beatty and W. L. Miller.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Maxine Oldfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Oldfield, Milan, to William R. Painter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Painter, 29 Henry street, was made here Saturday. The ceremony was performed at Cincinnati on Sept. 12. The couple will be at home at 33 Douglas avenue after tomorrow. Mr. Painter is employed at the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company as was Mrs. Painter, a former Mansfield resident.

Dresses, coats and jackets of wool are tops for evening fashions.

Reveal Marriage Of Mansfield Girl To Merle Hoffman

Announcement was made here this morning of the marriage Friday at 5:30 p. m. of Miss Louise Williams, daughter of Mrs. Walter Williams, Dickson parkway, to Merle Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman, Shelby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. B. Allison, Shelby Presbyterian church pastor, at Mrs. Williams home.

The bride, who has been employed at the office of the Shelby Salesbook company for a number of years, wore a burgundy afternoon gown with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

A wedding dinner was served the bridal party in the Chinese room of the Mansfield-Leland hotel after the ceremony. The couple are now on a short motor trip, and will soon be at home to their friends at 29 East Jefferson street, Shelby.

Mr. Hoffman is employed in the office of Ohio Seamless Tube company.

Former Students Have Fifth Annual Picnic Saturday

Former pupils and guests of the Excelsior Hall school No. 9 held their fifth annual picnic Saturday at North Lake park. There were 74 present including 28 former students and two teachers, Mrs. Ella Carl Mottayaw and A. L. Martin.

Mr. Martin, who taught at the school 52 years ago, was elected president of the group for the next three years. Mrs. Anna Voetsch is the secretary-treasurer of the association. The next picnic will be the first Saturday in October of 1939.

George Pittman, father of a former pupil, was the oldest guest at the affair. Music was provided by Zerby's orchestra following the picnic dinner.

FETED IN FOSTORIA.

Mrs. J. A. Yoder, 188 Marion avenue, who was the week-end guest of Mrs. A. J. Reycraft, Fostoria, was honored by her hostess Saturday at a 1 o'clock contract bridge-luncheon. Fall flowers were used for the decorative note.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Feathers Return to Grace Tall Hats This Year

A pheasant feathered fez coifs this young American for fall. Sally Victor designed it as one answer to the hat problem of the woman who clings to long hair. It is made of beaver (token of the turn of the century) and lined with velvet. Its colors—warm vermouth brown and golden yellow—are repeated in the feather which careens off to one side. Other hats of this type, for which there is a vogue this fall, include the Algerian chechia and the sawed-off fez. Some are made of fur and trimmed with a spray of jeweled flowers.

Possum Run Women Select Chairman; Fete Retiring Head

WITH the approaching end of the golfing season at Possum Run course it was announced today that Mrs. Leopold Adams was elected to serve as chairman next year. The retiring officers are Mrs. E. M. Eichin, chairman, Mrs. Frank Vild, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. M. J. Byrnes, Mrs. P. J. Linster and Mrs. Adam Brandt, handicap committee, and Mrs. H. E. Slough and Mrs. D. M. Leuthner, social committee.

New committees will be appointed in the spring. Mrs. Eichin was given a handerchief shower by the women players at the course last week following luncheon.

During the morning members played for low net scores with Mrs. E. M. Eichin, Mrs. H. S. Ackley and Mrs. John Seifert winning. The putting contest was won by Mrs. Eichin, and Mrs. F. A. Strome won the accuracy contest.

Wednesday morning the group will play for low putt scores. Pairings are as follows:

COUPLE MARRIED IN AFTERNOON SERVICE

Miss Bettie Fichter Becomes Bride of Roland Flowers, Galion, In Open Church Ceremony Yesterday.

THE open church ceremony which united in marriage Miss Bettie Eileen Fichter and Roland H. Flowers yesterday at 2 p. m. was attended by 325 persons. The service was read in the First Christian church by Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor. The former Miss Fichter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Fichter, 11 Flint street.

Mr. Flowers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Flowers, east of Galion, and he manages a branch store of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company here.

The single ring ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with garden flowers, two baskets of white chrysanthemums, ferns, palms and candelabra

Before the ceremony a program of nuptial music was presented by the organist and a vocalist. For her wedding the bride chose a white satin gown fashioned in the semi-princess style with Gibson Girl sleeves, a full skirt and long train. Her veil was attached to a halo, and her bouquet was of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Ann Reiser, Mansfield, who was hostess for one of the last pre-nuptial showers given for Miss Fichter, was the only attendant. She wore a crimson glow taffeta gown made drindl style and carried a bouquet of red roses and pompons.

For the ceremony the bride's mother wore dark blue lace with matching accessories. Mrs. Flowers appeared in a black outfit. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow rosebuds.

Richard Flowers, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Following the church ceremony there was a reception for 50 relatives and close friends at the home of the bride's parents.

Wearing a wine colored ensemble with black accessories, and a gardenia corsage Mrs. Flowers left with her husband for a motor trip. Upon their return they will be at home at 736 South Boston street.

Before her marriage Mrs. Flowers was employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. She was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school, and Mr. Flowers is a graduate of Galion high school.

Former Resident To Play Role With Charleston Group

Mrs. Howard L. Chernoff, of Charleston, W. Va., the former Miss Melva Graham of Mansfield, will play the part of Irene Hibbard when the Kanawha Players of Charleston present "First Lady" this fall, it was learned here today.

This was the role Mrs. Chernoff had with the Community Players in Mansfield last season when the Players presented "First Lady." The leading feminine role was played by Amy Carpenter Douglass, Cleveland, formerly of Mansfield.

Mrs. Chernoff was a member of the display advertising staff of The Mansfield News-Journal when she resided here.

Honor Guest With Birthday Affair

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chatlain, Olivesburg road, entertained Saturday evening at a birthday party in honor of their cousin, Edwin Palmer, South Bend, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer stopped briefly in Mansfield upon their return from a business trip to New York.

Accompanying them was Mrs. Palmer's mother, Countess Von-Zedwitz, of Baden, Germany. She was the guest of Mr. Palmer's mother, Mrs. I. M. Palmer, West Fourth street, last week.

The evening was spent socially by the 35 relatives and friends. Luncheon was served at a table with pink and white appointments. Mrs. Ralph Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Palmer, Detroit, Mich., were out-of-town guests.

La Petite Members Play Five Hundred Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Benninghoff, South Main street, entertained members of the La Petite club Saturday evening at their home. Five hundred was played during the evening, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Worley were the high score winners.

Guests of the group were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Baer, and the travel prize was won by Mrs. Baer. Luncheon was served amid a decorative scheme of garden flowers. The next meeting will be Nov. 5 with Mr. and Mrs. Worley, Marion avenue.

"I'm so grateful for what Siler City School taught me about COLDS"

Says Mrs. J. B. WHITLEY

"Every winter Margaret used to come down with one cold after another," Mrs. Whitley says. "Then the clinic started at her school. Soon she was catching fewer colds, and getting over them quicker. It certainly opened my eyes. Since then our whole family has followed Vicks Plan—and colds don't worry us now like they used to."

17,353 VOLUNTEERS

Take Part In Great Colds-Clinic

Over 7,000 School Children Do Their Part

DURING four winter periods, a modern crusade against colds was waged in schools, factories, homes. Here's what happened:

Both the number and length of colds were drastically reduced . . . Sickness from colds was cut more than half (50.88%) . . . School absences due to colds were reduced even more (57.86%)!

These are actual figures—the average results of the four winter series of clinical tests in which 17,353 people (including 7,031 school children) took part. Thirty-seven doctors were on the supervisory staff. Over 500 teachers, nurses, and other trained workers assisted them.

A SIMPLE GUIDE. This great clinic proved the worth of Vicks Plan. Vicks Plan is a simple guide which emphasizes the importance of proper personal care and the use of two specialized medications—Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub—for relief of symptoms in different types and stages of colds.

When colds threatened—at the first nasal irritation, sniffle, or sneeze—Va-tro-nol was used to help prevent the development of many colds. When a cold got by all precautions, its discomforts were relieved with VapoRub.

The results speak for themselves. Vicks Plan may do less for you—or it may do even more. But with such a record it certainly is worth a trial. It is simple and easy to follow in any home. You get the full directions in each package of Va-tro-nol or VapoRub.

Helps PREVENT COLDS

Va-tro-nol is specialized medication—expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. You feel this tingling, stimulating medication go right to work. Used at the first sniffle or sneeze—a few drops up each nostril—it helps to prevent many colds from developing. Keep it handy and use it early. VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

RELIEVES misery of COLDS

VapoRub is a family standby for relieving misery of colds. Rubbed on throat, chest, and back, VapoRub acts two ways at once: (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct on irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. This double action loosens phlegm, clears air-passages, eases cough, relieves local congestion. VICKS VAPORUB
